MANTELS

Which combine all the good qualities and all of the lesser ones are what we endeavor at all times to have. The designs are pretty, the material good, the finish most perfect, or less perfect, as the buyer may desire. By less perfect we mean less expensive. Some people do not want to pay as much as others. It's not every one who would buy a Mantel for $25, yet many would expect to pay more. You can choose which.

JAMES IS ON DECK.

Democracy's Commander at the Wheel.

What Campbell Thinks of the Platform.

It is a Strong Document Well Worded.

The Silver and Income Tax Planks.

The Governor is Enthusiastic and Eager for the Battle Which Will be Fought on Tariff Lines.

Columbus, O., July 18.—Governor Campbell is busily preparing to enter into the coming campaign and that he is confident of success is seen in his every move. Seen by a reporter and askad as to what he thought of the platform, and the silver plank, he said:

"It practically means free coinage But then, unlike the tariff plank, it was not adopted by the unanimous and non-dissenting vote of the convention. It was adopted by a vote of about four to three, which, I think, accurately represents the sentiments of the Democratic party.

"I think there can be no doubt that the entire party favors bimetalism, and a liberal coinage of silver so as to produce comparative parity of values between the two metals.

"I am free to say that all silver legislation is experimental, and that its actual effect must be shown by experience. The extremists demand unlimited coinage and the doctrinaries cry out that unlimited coinage means ruin, but the alarmists are not to be trusted, no matter at which end of the line they stand.

"I believe that any man who is not a doctrinaire and who has made some study of the coinage question and wants to arrive at the truth will say that he is uncertain as to the best course and that he needs light. You see the doctrinaries are not reasoning along the scientific line. They draw conclusions from past conditions and want to apply them to present and entirely changed conditions."

"But is a word, what are your sentiments on this point?"

"I am willing to chance free coinage. I believe there is a disposition of this question which will satisfy 75 per cent. of the people and the only way to reach it is by discussion and experiment.

"If I were to offer any criticism on this part of the platform it would be that it declares in favor of the unlimited coinage of both native and foreign silver.

"I believe it would have been better to have restricted the coinage to native silver. That would have been far enough to get at present. But really this question will not enter largely into the campaign.

"The people will want to hear something of the silver question, but, after the canvass is two weeks old you will hear almost nothing outside of the tariff.

"If some great silver man had been nominated on the republican ticket, then the silver question would be discussed; but Major McKinley stands for protection, is the great champion of the system, and that issue will crowd all others to the wall."

"I see, governor, that your platform advocates a graded income tax. Do you favor this proposition?"

"In a general way, yes. As a national issue, yes. But it has no business in a campaign in this state. I do not believe that a graded income tax would be constitutional. It does not seem to me to be in harmony with the spirit of the organic law of the state. It is an unnecessary piece of injection into the platform."

"Your platform did not indorse or condemn the constitutional amendments which will be offered to the people. What do you think of them?"

"They are a good thing, but the issues involved are not political. They give the people a chance to relieve themselves of a burden of taxation under which they seem to groan, and to equalize differences which they claim are unjust. I shall vote for them, but they will not enter largely into the campaign."

MAY RESULT IN MURDER.

A Brutal Fight Over a Dog in Findlay.

Batch of Criminals Sent to the Toledo Workhouse—General Mention.

FINDLAY, July 18.—(Special)—J. M. Barr & Co., have leased the L. E. & W. railroad elevators and will commence at once buying all kinds of grain.

Charles Roda, Edward Denny, John Parry and John Judge were hustled off to the Toledo works yesterday by Marshal Myers. Findlay will soon have a stone yard to care for this class of citizens.

Hon. S. D. Hought had the honor of being the first in this city to wire his hearty congratulations to Gov. Campbell over his renomination. He did so in a few seconds after the nomination was made.

A common, ordinary dog was the cause of a brutal assault in this city yesterday, which may result in murder. The facts in the case are as follows:

Denny John, a lineman for the Central Union Telephone Co., was over to the Brilliant City brewery putting in a 'phone. While up in the building the foreman, Geo Blaess, became enraged at the dog belonging to John, and finally shot and killed it. John met Blaess on the street, and after a few words he struck him and knocked him down and kicked him several times in the stomach and bowels, causing serious internal injuries which may cause his death.

The injured man was promptly placed under physicians' care and John was brought to the Central station and locked up without bail to see what would be the result of Blaess' injuries. John, in the past, has always born a splendid reputation and this is his first trouble.

Word was received here yesterday of the work of hoodlums against a Westley pastor and his wife, who formerly lived in this city. The parties referred to are Rev. J. P. Reidniger and wife, and the town is North Ridgeville, O., near Cleveland. The guilty parties stoned the house of Rev. Reidniger, broke in the windows and committed many other like depredations, because they accused him of being the cause of the town voting dry at a recent election.

The great Kellogg tube works, situated north of this city, of which much has been said and written, will soon be in active operation in all departments and employ more workmen than any factory in this section of Ohio. Many prominent men are interested in this great plant.

NEWS FROM THE SEALERS.

They Have Been Greatly Injured by the Closing.

VICTORIA B. C., July 18.—A deputation of sealing men waited upon Sir George Badon-Powell and Dr. Dawson on board the steamer Danube, yesterday, and presented a memorial setting forth the loss sustained by the prohibition of sealing.

They stated to the commissioners that they had not received any official notice of the closing of Behring sea, and consequently they had continued to prepare for the season.

Sir George stated that his view of the case was that the men-of-war had not gone to Bering sea for the purpose of making seizures, but to tell the sealing schooners that they were going to stop sealing in their (the sealers) interests.

In reply to a question as to the powers of the commission, Sir George said they had full power of inquiry into sealing through the whole course of the North Pacific ocean.

Sir George promised to take the question of compensation and other matters into consideration, and include it in their report.

Sir George and Dr. Dawson, subsequent to their conference with the sealers, visited Collector Milne, and had a long talk with him on the sealing question.

Mr. Milne showed them he had no authority to refuse to clear vessels for Bering sea, and therefore did not do so.

Mr. Milne also gave the visitors a list of the schooners cleared from Victoria, their tonnage and equipment. The commissioners left last night on the steamer Danube.

Indian Trouble.

MILLBANK, S. D., July 18.—The Review of this city was yesterday advised that serious trouble is apprehended at the Sisseton Indian agency. Official orders have been received by Indian Agent McCusick from Washington to clear the reservation of all white men except Gen. Sanborn, who is being backed up by federal officials in his attempt to collect from the Indians 10 per cent. of the money due them. The Sissetons say they will not accept anything less than the full amount promised them.

A SHIP ON FIRE AT SEA.

A Bark Burned and Her Crew Missing.

A Frightful Marine Tragedy Suggested Which May Prove a Reality.

Philadelphia, July 18.—A blazing ship, with every stitch of canvas bellying to a stiff breeze, and bright flames leaping up the rigging as high as the main yard, was sighted in the early morning of July 5 by Capt. Williams, of the steamship British Crown.

The burning vessel was noticed in latitude 51 and longitude 15, just before daybreak. The lookout of the British Crown saw to the eastward a bright light, which looked not unlike the heralds which usually go in advance of the rising sun.

However, the early hour precluded the possibility of this, and Capt. Williams headed the British Crown in the direction of the light, and called for the best speed of his good boat.

The light grew brighter and brighter, and just as dawn broke in the east, a huge bark, under full sail, driving before a free wind, and flaming from stem to stern, could be seen.

The flames gradually worked up the tarred rigging until every rope, spar and stay looked as if composed of fire. Shortly after the arrival of the Crown the mainmast of the doomed vessel toppled overboard and fell hissing into the sea. Captain Williams pursued the flaming vessel until he arrived close enough to ascertain that she was the British bark Octavia.

There were no signs of life aboard. This fact was considered mysterious until two small boats were discovered near by loaded with water, provisions, charts, oilskins and compass. The boats were all ready to receive a crew, but none could be seen.

Just then a large steamer, almost hull down, in the west was seen, and it is supposed that she rescued the crew of the ill-fated Octavia. While the Crown remained in sight the foremast of the burning boat was still standing, but the hull of the vessel was a solid mass of flames. There is no doubt that her destruction was complete.

When Captain Williams arrived at this port he ascertained that the Octavia cleared Quebec on June 8 for New-Castle-on-Tyne, with a cargo of lumber and deals. She was built at Shields, in 1853, and was owned by J. Graham & Co., of South Shields. She registered 856 tons, was 164 feet long, 30 feet beam, 19 feet depth of hold, carried a crew of 14 men and was commanded by Captain Dix.

Work of Lightning.

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 18.—A remarkable effect of lightning is reported during a storm at St. Marys, O. The chain works of the Bimel Standish Manufacturing company was struck and 70 of the employes were knocked speechless by the shock and some were seriously stunned. The lightning set the factory on fire, but it was extinguished.

They Lynched Him.

MIDDLESBOROUGH, Ky., July 18.—This morning at 3 o'clock Rossimus was taken from the jail and lynched by a posse of armed citizens. Yesterday afternoon Rossimus and Giles Johnson fired upon the police who were attempting their arrest, and wounded Patrolman Tucker and Policeman Dorsey Williams. They escaped, but were recaptured last night. Johnson escaped lynching through being jailed at Pineville.

Severe Storm.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., July 18.—A severe wind and rain storm accompanied by hail struck this city yesterday afternoon. The hail storm only lasted 10 minutes, but many window panes were smashed. In the township of Luxemburg, this county, the grain in the path of the storm for five miles was destroyed.

Madame De Bonnemain Dead.

BRUSSELS, July 18.—Madame De Bonnemain, famous as the mistress of Gen. Boulanger, died in this city last evening.

Commission Men Fail.

LONDON, July 18.—Edward Gripper & Sons, corn factors, of Manchester wharf, this city, have failed.

WILL RAID THE TOWN.

Navajos Determine to Rescue Their Chief.

They are Marching on Flagstaff and the Citizens are Preparing to Repel Them.

FLAGSTAFF, A. T., July 18.—Word has just been received by Sheriff Francis that the Navajo Indians had held a big powwow at Fort Defiance and a number of them had started for Flagstaff with the intention of forcibly releasing their leader, Chief Hostive, who is now in jail here.

If this report be true the Indians will arrive here to-day and preparations have been made to withstand their attack.

Chief Hostive says if he is not leased tomorrow his warriors will raid the town. Hostive expresses strong enmity toward the whites and says he will kill every white man he sees after he is released. Preparations are being made here to guard against a Navajo outbreak.

BLAINE'S NEW BOOMER.

She is a Woman and Fair of Face.

Manufacturing a False Condition of Health.

Gail Hamilton Has a Successor Who, While Not so Gifted, is at the Same Time a Great Hustler.

Bar Harbor, July 18.—Mr. Blaine has always been fond of being managed by a woman. For years Gail Hamilton was his right hand man and manager and she dipped her pen in vitrol for his enemies and in honey for himself.

Just why the redoubtable Gail, who certainly rendered him most efficient service, has been deposed nobody knows. But she has, and her successor is now playing fast and loose with the republican party all over the country.

She is getting up a boom for Blaine it is said. This woman has the advantage over Gail in some things. She may not be so tormentedly smart as that doughty warrior, but she's young and she's pretty, two things that nobody ever laid up against Gail Hamilton.

The favorable reports as to Blaine's health that have proceeded from Bar Harbor ever since the secretary came here have been such as to have bewildered even the minds of the faithful.

These reports, it is now said, have all been sent out for a purpose. These reports have come straight from Stanwood and are authentic.

It now transpires that the person responsible for them all is a young and beautiful girl about 19 years old, who has handled the press work in different parts of the country under the name or a man, and has been a silent mover and worker in different political situations for four or five years.

Her name is Marguerita Arlina Hamm. She is of French and Spanish descent, speaks three languages fluently and has been writing for American and French magazines and newspapers since she was 12 years old. She is taken up here by all the leading society people and is a special protege of Mrs. W. C. Whitney and Mrs. George Kidd of New York. Her grandfather was General Pierre Hamm of Canada, who was a great leader of the liberals in Canada about forty years ago and who wrote a history of Canada. Just how her first managerial connection with the Blaine boom was made is not certainly known. Certain it is that she landed here when Blaine himself did; that she dined at Stanwood and then went down to the telegraph office and wrote out her telegrams. It is now certain that all the favorable reports about Blaine's condition have been sent over the country by her.

Rumor says that she is a distant relative of Mrs. Blaine's and that that is the reason she bolsters up Mr. Blaine's fortune in everything she sends out. Rumor is also careful to add that her connection with the affair is purely political. At any rate her connection with it is not to be doubted and much interest is felt everywhere in the political aspect of the affair. Second only to Mr. Blaine himself, Miss Hamm is the most talked about person at present at Bar Harbor. Meanwhile she handles the Blaine boom for thirty papers here as it suits herself and the Plummed Knight.

The writer saw Mr. Blaine this morning and despite the encouraging comments made by those closest to him, anyone looking with judgment unimpaired is at once struck with a sympathetic feeling as he reads the dull expression of the face, with the lower jaw hanging down and the mouth open. The watchful solicitude in the eyes of Mrs. Blaine speaks more loudly than any words can of her fears for her husband.

Caused by Jealousy.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Jealousy over a 16-year-old girl who had just been released from the workhouse caused Geo. Johnson to shoot "Wooly" Alexander last night. Johnson was captured after an exciting chase. Alexander will probably die All the parties are negroes.

BOLD ASSASSINS.

Desperate Attempt to Kill a Police Force.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18.—A desperate attempt was made to assassinate the Middleborough police force yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock.

It seems that a lot of disreputable characters who frequent Gum Springs, a low drinking and gambling dive, just outside the city limits, concocted the plot to murder the officers.

They accordingly stationed about fifteen of their gang in ambush along the Louisville & Nashville road and two of their number came just within the city limits, commenced firing their Winchesters. These two were Gillis Johnson and Frank Rossimus.

Chief Maples, with a posse of officers, went in pursuit of the pair and they were led into an ambush.

Over one hundred shots were exchanged. Special Officer Dorsey Williams was shot through both thighs and Patrolman Todecker was shot through the leg. The police were forced to retire. They returned to the city. A posse of about one hundred citizens, armed with rifles, were soon marching in pursuit. Finally one squad came upon Johnson and Rossimus at a sharp bend in the road. The toughs threw up their Winchesters and fired.

The squad returned the fire, and about seventy-five shots were fired, when the toughs took to the bush. Rossimus was caught a few minutes later just as he had drawn a bead on Officer Douglass, and in another moment the officer would have been a dead man, as he was only about ten feet from Rossimus, who was covered by a bush.

Five Winchesters levelled at him caused him to surrender forthwith, and he was placed in the city jail here.

About 1 o'clock last night Johnson sent word he would surrender if he would be taken immediately to the county jail at Pineville, as he feared violence here. He accordingly surrendered to deputy sheriffs outside the city limits.

He was smuggled to the county seat in the 9 o'clock train. About 2 o'clock this morning a crowd of masked men entered the jailor's sleeping apartments at the city jail, and with pistols to his head demanded the keys to the jail. The jailor was forced to give up the keys.

The crowd then went into the jail, took Rossimus out and led him to the big bridge over Canal and Twentieth streets, where he was shot several times, a rope was then fastened around his neck and he was swung over the side of the bridge until 7 o'clock, when he was cut down.

A placard was tacked on the bridge rail just above the body, bearing this inscription:

WAPAK'S WATER WORKS.

The City Has Decided to Have Fire Protection.

WAPAKONETA, July 18—(Special)—Wapakoneta people want water works, and so expressed themselves yesterday at the election.

The proposition to give the council the authority to create a company for fire protection carried by 87 majority.

All fair-minded people are rejoicing.

Drowned While Bathing.

NANTUCKET, Mass., July 18.—Charles Liverpool, of Washington, D. C., one of the crew of the U. S. survey steamer Endeavor, was drowned last evening in the harbor while bathing near the steamer's side. He became exhausted and before assistance could reach him was dead. The body was recovered.

The Deal Off.

BOSTON, July 18.—The Boston News bureau says the deal between the Chicago Junction railway and Union Stock Yards company and the Chicago packers, Armour, Morris, Swift, etc., is off. It failed of ratification by the stock yards directors at the meeting in New York on Wednesday.

WARREN WAS ELECTED.

A Toledo Man Beaten Out of an Office.

Shady Methods Used by Ohio Republicans to Defeat the Will of the People.

COLUMBUS, July 18.—The republicans have been caught in a very small piece of business, that of stealing an office, as shown by the following published in the Post.

The official vote as given by the canvassing board elected B. F. Hyatt, of Hancock county, a republican member of the state board of equalization by 66 votes over F. R. Warren, the democratic candidate.

It has just been discovered that a mistake of 100 votes was made in figuring up the official vote, and hence the democratic member of the board was elected.

The most despicable part of the whole affair is the statement that several republicans have been cognizant of the error since January, but carefully concealed the facts.

A resolution to investigate the matter will be introduced in the board. The vote for members is canvassed and returned to the clerk of the county having the largest number in the district.

Dynamite Explosion.

PITTSBURG, July 18—A report of an explosion has reached this city. Two men and a team of horses were blown to atoms and other damage done. No particulars received.

THE HOPS ARE IN IT.

News of Their Doings in Western Lands.

Locusts are Now Following in the Wake of the Other Pests Doing Much Damage.

San Antonio, Tex., July 18.—H. P. Lawson, a prominent stockman of Deming, N. M., has arrived here and gives an account of the grasshopper ravages in the northern and western counties of New Mexico, where he says they are doing incalculable damage.

Some consider them 17-year locusts, which ravaged the west during the seventies. The lands are grazing in New Mexico, but the locusts are moving east and north in two principal swarms, driving grasshoppers on the range and leaving the alkali bush.

They stripped the vegetation and leaves of the trees and left nothing but the dry alkali earth. Where they have struck the Rio Grande, where the land is cultivated, they have ravaged the ground of everything in sight.

They move in bunches of four and five miles wide. One bunch has devastated Colfax and Mora, in the northern part of the territory, and is spreading into Colorado, Kansas and the Panhandle of Texas, while another bunch will reach the Central Texas line by winter.

They do not make much progress after flying, but the eggs they lay hatch and a new batch flies eastward. They will keep moving in this way and lay billions of eggs in Texas and Kansas for next season's hatching.

It will be bad for the ranges of western Texas, for if they cross New Mexico they will have no trouble on the old staked plains. They may not reach eastern Texas next week soon enough to destroy the crops, but I fear for Kansas. It will go hard with her in 1892.

HER NECK IN A NOOSE.

A Woman Found Hanging to a Tree.

Mysterious Case Which Can Neither be Called Murder or Suicide.

Kansas City, July 18.—The body of Mrs. William Wrigley, wife of a farmer living near Liberty, Mo., was found hanging with a rope around her neck to a tree on the farm of her husband yesterday.

The discoloration of the face and hands showed that the body has been hanging for considerable time. A note, written in a cramped hand and as if by an excited person, was found in her bosom.

A limb of a tree had been placed by the side of the tree, as if used in tying the noose, but it was so arranged as not to hold up the weight of a child.

Wrigley and his wife have quarreled considerably since Jennie Wrigley, stepdaughter of the deceased, committed suicide in New Mexico, several weeks ago. Constable Thomasson testified before the coroner's inquest this afternoon that Mrs. Wrigley had been to see him several times, and that she and her husband had had trouble.

She told him that they could not scare her into suicide as they had Jennie. The matter is mysterious, and it is hard to tell whether it is murder or suicide.

SEVERAL CONTRACTS LET

For Constructing the Toledo & Chicago Bee Line.

The First Contract is for Twenty Miles East of Morenci—Two Other Sections Under Contract.

Mr. Ben Reynolds is one of the greatest railway hustlers in this country. Every day counts with him and he is now rapidly organizing the working force for constructing the Toledo and Chicago Bee Line Railway.

The first contract was let yesterday to Mr. J. J. McCaughey, of Quincy, Illinois, for twenty miles commencing at Morenci and running east.

Messrs. Pocklington, Lynch and Williams have the contract for the portion west of Alexis, to the section awarded to Mr. McCaughey.

Messrs. Ford and Gibbons have been awarded thirteen miles directly west of the Wabash crossing. This will run the line about five miles west of Pioneer. Other contracts will immediately follow.

The section from the Wabash crossing to Morenci has not been let because the Fayette people have not yet reported what they will do. If they do not secure the road the line will run north about a mile and a new station will be located somewhere between Morenci and the Wabash crossing.

Mr. Pernot, of Indianapolis, general tie contractor, is in the city to-day and will go out on the line Monday to attend to that business.

Mr. Sylvester Lamb will have charge of the right of way and will commence work near Morenci next week.

Active operations may be now expected along the whole line, and the Bee Line will soon be an assured fact.

GRAND CHIEF CONDUCTOR

E. A. Clark, of the O. R. C., Talks to a Bee.

He Denies the Report That the Order is Going to Pieces and Shows How it is Prospering.

This morning Grand Chief Conductor E. A. Clark, of the Order of Railroad Conductors, who is here straightening out the Ann Arbor railroad trouble, in speaking to a Bee of the organization of which he is at the head, said:

"Our first biennial meeting will be held in Toledo during May, 1893. Previous to the recent St. Louis convention

FROM THE GRAY GABLES.

Ex-President Cleveland at His Summer Home.

Little Regard for Style and no Thought of Politics.

An Interesting Trip to Buzzard's Bay Made by a Correspondent Who Was Repaid for His Visit.

Buzzard's Bay, July 18.—It's a sleepy old place down here, on the Cape, where ex-President Cleveland has chosen to take up his summer home. Less than two hours' ride from Boston and you are at Buzzard's Bay station in Bourne.

Were it not for the cool sea breezes that are most refreshing after a day in the city, you would wonder what advantage this cape town has over many another worn-out village on the New England coast. At Buzzard's Bay there is a branch road going down to Wood's Holl and the arrival of the express from town keeps the place alive.

Sandy and bushy, the narrow road to "Gray Gables" winds over the hills and along the Monument river, the "long way 'round," as the old driver called it, for three and a half miles. The cottages are small and mostly one-storied, and the Bourne natives were plucking the blueberries that flourish on the burned hills on either side of the road.

"We are mighty glad the president has come here (they all call him president on the cape), for it has given the town a great boom. We take great pride in seeing Mrs. Cleveland drive along through the village, and, beside that, we all have an eye for the dollar. There are some Bostonians here, you know, and this will be a great summer place some day."

So the typical Yankee rambled on until a sharp turn at right angles to the road carried us through a grove of thriving oaks, up an oyster-shelled avenue, and the driver exclaimed: "There's where he lives."

With no tree for rods around, "Gray Gables," Tudor Haven, stands out on a bold promontory on Buzzard's bay. The wind blew almost a gale over the peninsula, and Grover Cleveland was standing before his house, giving first one direction and then another to the carpenters who are putting the finishing touches on the Frederick Tudor homestead. The actor, Joe Jefferson, stood near by, holding his straw hat to keep it from flying into the water.

Mr. Cleveland, as he stood there, did not look like a president. He was dressed in a gray cutaway suit, with flannel shirt, bow tie and slouch hat. He seemed pleased to see a representative of the press, and said immediately: "Can't I show you over my house?" It's just been fixed up and perhaps you would like to look at it."

On the piazza, Mrs. Cleveland, looking remarkably handsome, in a fetching gown of green, was chatting with Fred Benedict and Miss Benedict of New York, with whom she and the ex-president have just passed a few days in Mr. Benedict's steam yacht. A piazza more than a dozen feet wide runs around the house, which is a most picturesque study in gray.

The main door opens into a hall fitted in hard pine. There is a large fireplace, made of ordinary field stones, and suggestions come to one of how cosy the room might be when the storms roar around the cape. There are settles and couches, and large cushions, here and there a photograph, large bunches of flowers that show that the fair hostess has busied herself in arranging the room. Around the hall above is a gallery, and from this gallery lead off the six chambers.

In one corner of the lower story there is a room which, Mr. Cleveland explains, is "just as we found it in the old Tudor house." Here again is a great fireplace, made from the round field stones, and there is an air of rusticity about the place. On the front of the house, all open to the sea, with its great plate glass windows, is the pride of the whole house, the dining room. On all sides the view is unobstructed. Far out in the bay can be seen a wandering sloop, which is struggling with the breeze from the southwest, now almost a gale.

Mr. Cleveland pointed to the tower across the bay, remarking that it was on the church or synagogue in Onset, where the Spiritualists have their meetings. Then the bay widens, until miles below it merges into the horizon.

The table shows that the "lunch," at which the honored guests were Joe Jefferson and the Benedicts, must have been rather pleasant affair.

About the house is the statesman takes the reporter, viewing his estate, that stretches down the bay and along the Monmouth river, covering 100 acres. "I wonder if you eastern people appreciate this place," said he. "To me it is one of the most charming spots I have ever seen. Why, I take great delight in every moment I am here," and he asked the writer to step down to the bath houses, that are his private property, on his beach, a stone's throw from the house."

"Do you intend to make this a business venture?" suggested the reporter, when Mr. Cleveland told him he had pulled down some old oyster houses in the vicinity and had used the oyster shells for a road. There has been a rumor that the ex-president came to Bourne to "boom" the place.

"I'm not particular about selling any of my property," he answered, but I don't believe I would refuse if any one insisted. I shall always keep a good many acres around the house here."

Not far from the house a wharf juts out into the bay, and a catboat is anchored a few rods off. Capt. Elbridge, a Cape skipper, is always on hand to take out his distinguished crew; as Mr. Cleveland says: "Whenever the whim for fishing strikes me."

The ex-president looks as if he had spent many a day on the salt water. He is browned a healthy hue, and the sun has burned his neck and about his ears away down to his coat collar. He is not uncomfortably stout, and the good people of the town say he has lost some of his flesh since cruising about on the bay.

There is one thing certain. With neither secretary or clerk, he has come to the quiet shore to get far away from politics and to enjoy the ease of a spot that Gen. Greely says is one of the healthiest, if not the healthiest, place on the coast.

Politics is far, far from his mind. When asked if he would accept a nomination to the presidency next year if offered to him, Mr. Cleveland replied: "I haven't thought a thing about it," and he truly acted as if the matter of whether or not the fish would bite on the morrow were of a great deal more importance to him. "I don't think I shall make Massachusetts my permanent place of residence," said he, "although I think it's a fine state."

"I understand Gov. Russel spent a day here a week or two ago. What do you think of the chances of success of the Democracy in this state next fall?"

"I'm afraid I haven't looked into the matter enough," Mr. Cleveland replied, "but," he concluded, "I certainly hope Mr. Russell will win. I like him."

"What will be the leading issue of the campaign, Mr. Cleveland?"

"Oh, that seems to trouble every one else, but it gives me no concern whatever," said he, with the greatest indifference, as he threw away his cigar.

Then the conversation turned on various matters of interest, and the president burst out with: "That was a fine letter the Washington correspondents sent the other day on pensions. He knows the subject thoroughly," and the owner of Gray Gables gave a knowing smile. "I'm sorry that story got into the New York papers about Mr. Booth's health. Why, I see him every day, almost. Mrs. Cleveland and I drive over to Mr. Jefferson's place once or twice a day, and I assure you Mr. Booth is in fine health. The place agrees with him. He enjoys it, and is gaining strength all the time."

Mr. Cleveland had led the way to the shingle-covered stable, where his two men were busy fixing a pole to a new double-seated, two-horse trap, which had just been bought for Mrs. Cleveland's private use.

"We don't care much for style here," he explained. "Mrs. Cleveland and I drive with any team that happens to be hitched up when we want to start. Sometimes she drives over to the Jeffersons with me or the hired man, and sometimes alone. There is no restraint here, and it is a relief. We have some fine neighbors a half-mile away. There is Mr. Benedict's steam yacht just off the point there in front of Mr. Moses Williams' house, and just beyond is the residence of Mr. Alphens Hardy. Do you notice my hennery? You see we have all the appurtenances of a farm. My windmill keeps us supplied with a never-failing source of the purest of cold water, and the breakwater that is being built around the cove will help make the place look a bit neater."

For years there has been need of a bridge across the narrows at the head of Buzzard's bay, and there have been many local fights among the town fathers on the cape. The bridge builders have at last succeeded, and the towns of Bourne and Wareham will have a shorter road for communication within a year. Next week, Saturday, the victory will be celebrated in true New England style in Sandwich. There will be band concerts, a dinner at the Manomet house, and many a jolly toast. Mr. Cleveland will respond to one.

The workmen in the stables and about the estate were hurrying in their labor and off went their hats when the genial owner entered to direct what horses and trap should be used to carry Mr. Jefferson around the bay.

It was "Yes, sir, Mr. President," and "No, sir, Mr. President," and they bustled around the barn, hither and thither. A blooded bulldog lay stretched on the floor and Mr. Cleveland said he was a great pet, and he wiped his gold-bowed spectacles and stooped to pet the sleek animal.

"Do you ever get up to town nowadays, Mr. President?" asked the reporter.

"Seldom, if ever," he replied. "I have just returned from a yachting trip with Mr. Benedict down to Newport, Block Island and the sound. I'm not looking for the cities now, and when I'm not here I'm on the water. Others speculate as to the political future, and let them do it. It doesn't matter to me."

Then he lighted a cigar and we walked down to the shore, remarking, "This breeze is a good deal stiffer than we generally get. I guess it's wet work out on the bay to-day," and the ex-president cast a glance at the water. Then he continued, "The fish are scarcer than usual this year. As a rule we have good bass, perch and bluefish fishing."

Mr. Cleveland strolled along through the short grass, by the slender saplings that are struggling with the winds, talking on one subject and another, saying: "I haven't had a secretary since I left Washington. Don't think I feel bored with newspaper men. I have become accustomed to them and like to talk with them."

Back again to the gray gabled cottage, inviting repose and rest.

Joseph Jefferson had gone up to the broad piazza. Mrs. Cleveland rocked contentedly, breathing in the pure ozone that blew in from sea and oaky woodland, and with the Benedicts and Jefferson was chatting happily.

"Which way did you drive over?" asked Mr. Cleveland, when the newspaper man had shaken his brown hand, and he arranged the brim of his brown felt hat. "Probably came through the woods. Go back the new road through Bourne, and see if it isn't a pleasant drive. We've had it improved, and some day will have a bridge over."

We were on the road again, out through the guarded oaks, and back to the highway. As if in deference to the presence of the noted visitors, the little homes along the roadside have been freshly painted, and looked particularly neat and clean.

On the road the driver halted for a moment to speak with a man with a scythe.

"Yes," he replied, "and they're mighty fine people. I've been working there now for nigh on to three weeks, and I find the president a genial, agreeable gentleman, happy and enthusiastic for this place. That's what we want. Guess he was glad to see you, wasn't he? Treats every one white. He and the Jeffersons have great times together."

WORKED A CLEVER SCHEME.

How Astute Bostonians Turned a Few Dollars.

They Form a Firm, and Without a Penny Got a Rating of a Quarter of a Million.

NEW YORK, July 18.—E. E. Knight, who was a successful produce dealer in Boston, died a year ago, and his wealthy widow moved to Brooklyn.

The body had hardly been interred when a set of swindlers concocted a scheme to profit by his name. A stationer of Chelsea, Mass., named Litchfield, who was not satisfied with the slow process of making money in a legitimate way, conceived the brilliant idea of starting a house to succeed E. E. Knight.

He gathered to his counsel three bright young men named Parker, Douglass and Frank Robinson, alias Frank Stanley.

The quartet opened a finely equipped office at No. 15 Central street, Boston, three weeks ago, and hung out a sign on which was painted this legend: "Mrs. E. E. Knight." Litchfield was a very smooth talker, and through his endeavors a rating of $250,000 was obtained in the mercantile agency.

On the strength of the excellent rating Litchfield took his partners around and introduced them to some of the best houses in Boston. They represented to the firm of Force & Moss, jewelers, that Parker was about to be married and wanted a lot of jewelry, presumably for his bride.

Force & Moss gave them credit for $7,000 worth of diamonds and other valuables, the house of "Mrs. E. E. Knight" becoming surety for Parker's indebtedness. The Boston Furniture company sold the firm $1,000 worth of goods on time. At a carriage manufactory they got a rig for $1,350 on time.

Other business houses were victimized in the same way, and it is estimated that the total amount of their purchases was $25,000. As fast as the goods were bought they were sold at reduced prices, excepting the jewelry, which was kept to be disposed of later.

A week ago Force & Moss were warned that Parker was a notorious swindler. They became uneasy about the solidity of "Mrs. E. E. Knight and asked the Boston police to investigate.

Detectives visited the office in Central street and found all the office furniture packed and ready for shipment. The proprietors were there and gave answers to the detective's questions which were not exactly satisfactory, but there was no evidence on which to arrest any of them.

When the police visited the place the next day the birds had flown and the office equipments were gone. A description of the men was wired all over the country.

Detective Jacobs, of Inspector Byrnes' staff, happened to be in Simpson's pawnshop on the Bowery on Monday afternoon when a sleek looking man about 23 years old entered the place and asked for a loan of $100 on a valuable diamond ring, worth probably $500.

An old man was with him. Detective Jacobs recognized in the pair Litchfield and Stanley, two members of the fake firm of "Mrs. E. E. Knight," of Boston.

The detective started to question the strangers. Litchfield showed weakness at the first volley, contradicting himself as to where he came from. Stanley smelled a mouse and said he had important business outside and would come back in a few minutes. He skipped out. Detective Jacobs continued to question Litchfield until the latter broke down and confessed.

Jacobs handed Litchfield over to an officer and went out to hunt for Stanley. He found him hiding in a hallway near by. Stanley maintained his innocence, although loaded down with jewelry which he could not trace.

Police Inspector Dugan, of Boston, came here and identified the men. Parker and Douglass have escaped. It is thought that $20,000 worth of the goods can be recovered.

THE OUTLAW AT LARGE.

The Man Hunt Failed to Materialize.

His Place of Hiding Still Undiscovered.

He Emerges from His Hiding Place Only to Again be Lost to View in the Dense Woods.

Islip, L. I., July 18.—Tom Richardson, the cave dweller, housebreaker, chicken thief, wife threatener and all round outlaw, would have indulged in the standard heavy villain laugh could he have spent last night in Islip and have witnessed the ludicrous collapse of that "great hunt" which had been organized for his especial benefit for a day or more.

Midnight was the uncanny hour for mustering the forces pledged to the dangerous work.

The clock struck twelve, and with it appeared a few, a very few, of the brave men who had vociferously offered their services to assist in running down the outlaw. A consultation was held, and it was determined to arouse the delinquents, and ascertain the why and wherefore of their non-appearance.

This was sad work for the few who had gone into the proposed movement with heart and soul. Excuses rained down upon the faithful band as thick as drops in an April shower. It was astonishing what a number of ills had suddenly fallen upon the community.

It was a poor showing for this town, which is famed as a place for jaded city folks to come and renew their youth.

This settled the organized hunt, of which so much had been expected. In its place a go-as-you-please, every-man-for-himself sort of a campaign has been inaugurated against the outlaw. There is no longer any semblance of organization among the man hunters of the township and almost every one out in the swamp to-day is working on his own book for the capture of the outlaw and, incidentally, the reward.

All day long this free and easy hunt has been going on, and now the freebooter's capture seems as far off as at the start.

The detectives are still in town and have apparently abandoned their salaried energies to the easy task of watching the members of Tom's family in order to prevent the smuggling of supplies to the hunted man. They hope to starve him into submission.

The quiet arrest and imprisonment of Tom's brother James is arousing some indignation, and the question is being asked all over town, by what right was he arrested and by what authority is he now consigned to solitary confinement in some unknown place?

It is rumored that his case will be brought before the attention of the court on a writ of habeas corpus to be sworn out by one of the many citizens who are indignant at the high handed manner in which the boy has been spirited away.

Mrs. Hawkins, the sister of the outlaw, recognizes the fact that she is under detective surveillance, and she doesn't like it. In a talk with her to-day she gave for the first time what may be a reason for Tom's outlawry.

"My brother," said she, "has always been a truthful, honorable man, and I can't believe him the guilty wretch which my townspeople claim he is. You have only heard one side of the story. I only pray that he may be captured alive, so that he may tell his version.

"He was in good social and financial condition until he married Annie Waller. Then his troubles commenced. He gave all his earnings to her for the payment of household expenses, and then discovered, when too late, that all the money was gone and the debts all unsettled. Old Waller's version of Tom's dismissal from his house is false. Tom was not kicked out; he left of his own account.

THE OUTLAW'S WIFE.

He had a perfect understanding with his wife and bid her goodby on the best of terms."

Mrs. Hawkins showed me a letter Tom had written to her from Philadelphia on June 24, telling of his success in finding lucrative employment. Its closing sentences were of his wife.

"Tell Annie," he wrote, "that she must come to me. I cannot live without her. Assure her of my love, and remember that if she fails to join me it will break my heart."

"Does that seem like the message of a blood-thirsty wreich?" asked Mrs. Hawkins. "I believe that Tom will yet come forth from his hiding place in the woods to make a statement which will do much to clear his reputation. Who says that Tom has threatened his wife's life? A woman who is Annie Waller's friend and confidant, and no one corroborates this woman's sensational tale."

Meanwhile Tom is keeping up all his old time spectacular pleasanteries. At least twice a day he appears at various points in the shrub tangled fringe of Saxton's Swamp to strike terror into some farm laborer or woman. Yesterday morning at half-past five he emerged from the undergrowth within a hundred yards of Colonel Hawkins' house in Bayshore, coolly walked into the open field, took a long look at the surrounding country, then turned and leisurely entered the woods.

Old Mrs. Hawkins, peeping from behind the shutters, saw and told of this performance.

William Jones, a resident of Islip, who has been foremost in the hunt, was notified. Within twenty minutes after the outlaw's disappearance Jones was on the spot and found the trail. Without difficulty he followed it for nearly a mile, finally losing it where three roads meet. The outlaw's track is peculiar, as the shoes he wears are evidently home made and heavily wired on the sole across the ball of the foot.

"Why," said Mr. Jones, "this man is an artist in woodcraft. The trail I followed was through a dense undergrowth, but not a twig was broken or bent by the outlaw's movements. He traveled like a snake and I was forced to follow on hands and knees."

Ministers, lawyers, teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and billiousness. One is a dose Try them.

TROUBLE IN THE RANKS.

The Federated Order of Railroad Employes Don't Run Smoothly.

CHICAGO, July 18.—There is trouble in the Federated Order of Railroad Employes, which recently expelled the brotherhood of railroad trainmen for standing by the Chicago & Northwestern when it discharged the switchmen a few weeks ago.

The firemen are angry because the trainmen were thrown out as an entire organization, and threaten to pull out on their own book.

The firemen say that it might have been all right to discipline the Chicago & Northwestern trainmen, but it was all wrong to expel the entire order.

Grandmaster S. E. Wilkinson, of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, is out with a statement in vindication of the action of his organization in reference to the trouble with the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association, in which he condemns the switchmen's organization for what he calls unfair action toward the trainmen.

The charges Mr. Wilkinson makes are concurred in by W. A. Sheehan, grand secretary of the trainmen's brotherhood.

DON'T WANT HARRISON.

Indiana Colored People Refuse to be Comforted.

Bruce's Mission to Keep Them in Line Proved a Failure—The President Was Two-Faced.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 18.—Ex-United States Senator Bruce, of Washington, has been in the city for 10 days past as the agent of the administration in an effort to conciliate the colored voters, and has left for the east thoroughly disgusted with the result of his mission.

He found the colored sentiment almost a unit in its opposition to Harrison, and so determined that his efforts to conciliate them were fruitless.

He said that he was authorized to speak for the president and that he had come here for the purpose of inquiring why an organization had been effected by the colored people against the president.

He asked a plain question and received a plain answer, being told that Harrison had ignored the claims of the young, active, intelligent colored men and had followed the old rule of taking care of the old party hacks at the risk of party welfare; that not one of the many promises given the negro during the last campaign had been redeemed, and the Indiana colored men were determined to resent the slights which they had borne so long without complaint. He was told to say to the president that every active young colored man in Indiana is opposed to his renomination and will oppose him at the polls if renominated. Prominent colored men say that the feeling among their race is intense and that Bruce has added to the ill-feeling against Harrison by assuming to interfere in the matter.

Rev. G. A. Lissell, presiding elder of the Louisville district of the A.M.E. church, says: "As far as I have been able to investigate the matter there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction expressed by the colored voters of this and other states over the treatment shown the colored race by the administration. The colored voters have not received offices in any sort of proportion to their services.

ANOTHER CASE OF LEPROSY

Found in the Busy City of New York.

The Citizens Become Alarmed When They Learn of the Close Contact With the Disease.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A Chinese leper has been discovered in an east side laundry. He is Chin Hop Sing, and when the representative of the health authorities paid him a professional visit he was industriously ironing a shirt. He has been a leper eight months, and seven months of that time he has spent in washing the linen of east siders.

The health office, after examination, decided that it was a genuine case of leprosy, but say they cannot take the man in charge, because they have no place to take him. Here is the story of the Chinaman:

A year and a half ago when Chin Hop Sing came to this city from San Francisco he was as healthy a dumpy little Chinaman as any one would wish to see.

There were, however, queer rumors about him. It was said that Chin Hop Sing had lived with a leprous friend in San Francisco and he had helped to support him until one day the doctors came and took the friend away.

His countrymen shunned him and would hasten out of his way when he approached them. At last he was driven into a miserable room, where only the lowest of the low reside, and where, it is said, other lepers have hidden themselves from public gaze.

In that place Hop Sing lived until a purse of $200 was raised to take him back to China. His friends were not actuated by any feelings of kindness or sympathy. They wanted him out of the way.

Chin took the money and promised to go away, and he did go away, but only as far as Newark, N. J., where he invested part of his money in a laundry. The place had been kept by Li Chung. Chung was a leper and in a very bad way with the disease.

The two lepers formed a partnership to make money by washing American clothes. Chung was rapidly growing worse. Hop Sing's malady was just beginning to show itself in the super sensitive blotches which broke out on his back and neck.

The strange partnership did not last very long. Just what broke it up no one knows. Some say that Chung got so bad that he could not work and that Hop Sing did not want to do all the work.

Chin Hop Sing braved the wrath of the subscribers of the fund and returned to New York. His head had begun to swell, his ears were assuming enormous proportions, and his nose had reached a remarkable size. Besides, his eyelashes had dropped out and he was getting bald. He went to the laundry of his cousin, Chin Eu, and demanded admittance.

The cousin was afraid to send him away, so he let him sleep there until morning. When Chin Eu awoke and saw how Chin Hop looked he was terror stricken. He would not stay in the place another hour. He believed it was infested already with the fearful disease. He told the leper he would sell out for $50. The bargain was made, and Chin Eu has not been seen since.

Chin Hop Sing took possession of the shop immediately, and went right on with the business. He has been washing and ironing clothes there ever since.

The little fat-faced Chinaman, whom the folks in the neighborhood have patronized for the past seven months, is a leper and he has been in such a bad way recently that he could hardly do the work. For hours at a time he has been compelled to rest. He has found it impossible to get any help, for there was not a Chinaman in the city who would work 10 minutes for him. Sometimes he would find a strange Chinaman from San Francisco or New Orleans who would work for him, but he would leave as soon as he found what was the matter with his employer.

Fixing the Responsibility.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 18.—At the inquest on Seaman Brown, who was killed in a conflict with United States marshals Tuesday, the evidence tended to fix the responsibility for the affair on the officers. It also appeared that the officers who claimed to be deputy marshals were not deputized by Marshal Gard and therefore had no authority to arrest the sailors.

It has developed that a meeting of citizens held on Wednesday night the question of lynching the prisoners was debated, but it was decided to await the conclusion of the inquest.

ONLY PLAYING AT WAR.

Peace Will Reign When Vicuna Enters Office.

Revolutionists Fight Merely to Make a Show.

Balmaceda's Ships Not Strong Enough to Break the Blockade—Prize Money for the Fighters.

Panama, July 6.—Although active hostilities between the congressional and government forces in Chili were resumed a few days ago and resulted in a victory for the former and the capture of Huasco, there seems little reason to doubt that this incident was merely a spasmodic movement, meant more as a demonstration of the fact that the revolution is still active.

This fact the very insignificance of the place operated against tends to demonstrate. It is very probable that the present condition of affairs will continue until the entry into office of Senor Don Claudio Vicuna, the president-elect. Then the negotiation of satisfactory arrangements will not only be possible but very probable.

Meanwhile, interest must be kept up, hence the late descent on Huasco. According to the newspaper reports this move was pending since the middle of May, when the transport Maipo left Iquique to aid in receiving and distributing arms. She appears to have now turned up with munitions for an army of 25,000 men, and the blow has been struck.

Otherwise the status quo remains unbroken while the country at large yearns for peace. What with the forthcoming presidential election and the enforced inaction consequent on the Winter season (for it is now the Southern Winter and the Andean passes are snowblocked,) everything seems to conspire propitiously for the restoration of peace.

All shipments from Chili proper to the Tarapaca province having been prohibited, the revolutionists are drawing their food suplies from San Francisco and through Panama; and, while greatly inconvenienced, can scarcely be actually starved out. Balmaceda's two torpedo boats and the now famous transport Imperial keep moving about the Tarapaca coast, but are not strong enough to enforce the blockades of the ports. They have to keep well out of range of the big congressional ships.

Appended are some interesting items of news carried from Iquique to Callao by the United States crusier Baltimore recently:

When about to start from Iquique, a transport arrived there, and, although her name could not be made out, she was supposed to be the Amazonas, with 1,000 troops from the South.

The Cochrane, Abtao, Huascar and transports remained in port, patrolling the bay during the night. The torpedo boats and the Imperial had gone south. The Magallanes, O'Higgins and two armed transports were coasting south of Iquique, endeavoring to get the "drop" on the torpedo boats and the Imperial.

The foreign element in Chili seems to be greatly favoring the congressional cause, as the following from El Nacional, of Iquique, will show:

"Two young Italians have arrived here from Valparaiso, with the object of joining the congressional party. One is Mr. Anzani Canzio, son of an Italian general and nephew of Garibaldi. He is a lieutenant in the Italian army. The other is Mr. Angel Grandona, an Italian naval officer.

"The Government Junta, taking into consideration their readiness to voluntarily offer their valuable services to the congressional cause, has named them honorary officers of the army.

"Emelio Korner, an officer of the Prussian army, who had contracted to organize the Chilian Staff and the War Academy, has also left Santiago to join the revolutionists. It is reported that Mr. Juan A. Oriego, ex-sub-secretary of the war department, has gone with Mr. Korner. Mr. Korner was the sub-director of the military college, and was intimately acquainted with Col. Jorge Boon Rivera, who is now serving the congressional party in the north."

The sympathy, both direct and indirect, of the British element with the congressional party is notorious.

The Balmacedist congress has passed an act providing that hereafter all import dues and storage charges must be paid in gold or silver, calculated on bills at 38 pence. This decree has had the effect of enhancing the prices of all imported goods, and it is stated that the increase has been generally between 125 and 150 per cent.

The same power has awarded $150,000 prize money to the commanders of the Admiral Lynch and the Admiral Condell, which blew up the Blancho Encalada.

Parnell's Costs.

LONDON, July 18.—In connection with the statement yesterday made in Dublin that Mr. Parnell had paid the costs in the O'Shea divorce case, Capt. O'Shea's solicitors to-day write that such is not the case. They say that Mr. Parnell offered to pay one half of the costs in May last and the balance within one month thereafter. This proposition, the solicitors say, was accepted by Capt. O'Shea, but nothing has since been heard by Capt. O'Shea or themselves from Mr. Parnell.

The solicitors declare that they have experienced the greatest difficulty in serving the bankruptcy order on Mr. Parnell, who is now moving to have the court set it aside on the ground that he is not domiciled in England.

WORST FORM ECZEMA

Baffled Best Medical Skill for Eight Months. Cured in Two Months by Cuticura Remedies.

This is to certify that a child of mine had eczema in its worst form, and which baffled the best medical skill that could be employed here. The little sufferer was wrapped in agony for at least eight months. Six months of that time its suffering was simply untold, then I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. In two months the awful disease had ceased its vengeance, and my darling boy had rest, and to all appearance the disease had yielded; but I continued the medicine for several months after no trace could be seen of it on any part of the body. The doctors here watched the disease with much interest, and could only say, "Well done!" The case was known far and wide, and everybody was much surprised. But thanks to CUTICURA REMEDIES. Could there be anything on earth that would cause a father to rejoice it surely would be when the little tormentor once could have such a remedy at hand. (See portrait herewith). J. A. NICOLES, Bunker Hill, Ind.

A child was brought to me with chronic eczema that had defied splendid treatment from many good doctors. As a regular M. D., should have continued similar treatment, but thought it useless, so put it on CUTICURA. The child is well. C. L. GURNET, M. D., Doon, Ia.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to feet. We all took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. Settlement of the Strike as Far Away as Ever.

The Men Refuse the Compromise Offered by the Companies.

They Make an Offer Which the Companies Reject.

The Central Labor Union and All Organized Labor Will Aid the Strikers—Mayor Emmick's Position — No Telling When the End Will Come.

The street car strike is still on.

There are no prospects of an immediate settlement, and no man can foretell the outcome of the entanglement.

The men have rejected a settlement on the $1.75 per day basis. They made propositions to the companies to settle the difficulty last night, which were promptly rejected by the companies. There the matter rests.

The strikers now aver that they will listen to no overtures for peace on a basis less than $2 per day. The companies positively assert that they will not pay this.

Mayor Emmick's efforts at arbitration have so far been futile and people are still indulging in daily constitutionals,

EMMICK'S DOUBLE DEALING.

"How Happy He Could Be With Either Were Other Dear Charmer Away"—Both Sides Denounce Him.

To the Street Car Company:

"I will see that the cars run to-morrow, if I have to appoint 500 special policemen to do it. VINCENT J. EMMICK."

To the Street Car Employes:

"Take my word for it boys, not a whee will turn till the trouble is settled.

"VINCENT J. EMMICK."

It is hardly conceivable that any one, and particularly the chief officer of a city like Toledo, should be guilty of the double dealing reflected in the above sentiments, and yet both the street car companies and the strikers assert that he has made such assertions as are given above, within 24 hours.

An indication of the feeling that exists between the chief executive among the labor organizations will be found in the resolutions which are printed herein. The feeling among the street car companies regarding his actions may be gleaned from the conversation which took place yesterday afternoon between a well known gentleman and two representatives of a street car company.

"Well, I see that Emmick has gone back on the boys," said the gentleman.

"Oh, to h— with Emmick," was the prompt reply. "We got him a carriage this morning to go around and see the men. At one barn he told them to accept the proposition, and at another he advised them to hold out for $2. That is the way he is doing. What kind of a man is that?"

The other representative present said: "Why, you ought not to make any breaks like that. The gentleman you are talking to is a BEE reporter. Are you not?" turning to the gentleman.

"No, sir, I am not, but I think the gentleman's statement regarding Mr. Emmick is about correct. He does the double shuffle beautifully."

At the strikers' headquarters, in Carpenter's hall, the proclamation was denounced, and the mayor's action in visiting the barns and superceding the conference committee without any authority, was also denounced. Curses both loud and deep were heard on all sides, as his honor seemed to realize the situation, for it was but little sleep he got last night. He was on the alert from evening to daybreak this morning, and it was amusing to see the agility with which he could jump from one side to another. When he was not holding a private consultation with the strikers and attempting to explain his views on the rights of labor he was with the street car companies explaining the doctrines of the prerogative and privileges of capital.

The Plasterer's Union Indorse the Strike.

The Plasterer's union at its regular meeting last night indorsed both the street car men and the printers in the pending strike. A large delegation visited Carpenter's hall and personally sympathized with the strikers. Individually and collectively they denounced Mayor Emmick's tactics. The following was the resolution adopted:

Resolved. That we endorse the action of the striking printers, and commend their determination to stand for their rights; that we will give them any assistance in our power and refuse to patronize any firms that buy from the Blade Printing and Paper company.

Resolved, Also that we believe the employes of the street railway companies to be reasonable in their demands; that we will scrutinize the actions of city officials in their dealings with the strikers; that we will assists the strikers with our money and influence as far as in our power, and that a committee be appointed to wait upon the men at Carpenters' hall and present a copy of these resolutions.

Signed by the Committee.

The line men, who, by the way, organized last night, adopted resolutions that have in them the right ring. They, too, visited the headquarters in a body and presented to the committee the following red hot resolutions:

WHEREAS, Mayor Vincent J. Emmick has without warrant or solicitation interfered in the settlement of the difficulties between the street car companies of the city and its employes, and

WHEREAS, He has dealt double with both sides in his alleged attempt to negotiate an agreement, promising one thing to the men and the opposite to the companies; be it

Resolved, That we the members of the Linemen's Union, take this opportunity of denouncing the perfidy and double dealing of Mayor Emmick as despicable and unworthy of a man who has been honored with the highest gift in the hands of the people of Toledo to bestow, and we furthermore pledge ourselves to use every possible means that God has given us in assisting the street car men to accomplish the wise and just ends they have in view.

Another Indorsement.

The Wood Working and Machine Hands Union, No. 631, were also on deck with a set of resolutions. They proffered assistance and personally waited upon the conference committee after the regular meeting held last night. The following was the resolution:

WHEREAS, Vincent J. Emmick, mayor of Toledo, has, without any authority on the part of street car unions, undertaken to settle the difficulty now existing between said unions and the street car companies of Toledo, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Wood Working Machine Hands union, denounce as an unwarranted intrusion and impertinence his unasked and undesired interference in this matter, and we particularly denounce his double-dealing action in the present trouble. We consider his conduct as unworthy of a man and a citizen, much less the head of a municipality like of Toledo, and we promise the street car men our heartiest support, morally, financially and if need be physically.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

How It Was Received at Headquarters—War to the Knife.

"War to the knife and knife to the hilt," was the watchword at the headquarters of the striking carmen after the arbitration committee made its report.

Wm. Fellows had been from the beginning opposed to the strike and favored a settlement. President Booth, of the Central Labor union, as will be seen by his speech, held similar ideas, and it was well known that Reynold Voit favored a prompt settlement.

When it became known among the rank and file of the strikers that the three gentlemen above-named had been appointed to represent the strikers, with full power to act, on the conference of arbitration, there was some dissatisfaction. This was chiefly for the reason that all three favored a settlement on any honorable terms, and even at a price less than $2, and the boys felt that the matter was practically settled on terms that would not be acceptable to many. The appointment of the committee was due to the panic created by Mayor Emmick's unique manifesto.

The result, therefore, of the conference was all the more unexpected, and if the representatives of the street car companies could have been present at Carpenter's hall when the committee made its report they would have discovered that the men have plenty of backbone.

"Every man, woman and child with the soul of a dog is with you."

The words coming from a man so cool, collected and conservative as President Booth fairly electrified his auditors, and the hall rang with cheers rendered again and again.

During the absence of the arbitration committee the conference committee held a secret session. Every 15 or 20 minutes couriers were sent out to the various stations where patrols are posted to keep the men informed of the situation and to keep their courage up.

At intervals committees from other labor organizations visited the hall and helped to infuse courage into the hearts of their striking brethren by proffers of assistance.

The committee were all present, as were BEE and Commercial representatives, when, at a little after midnight, the committee returned to the hall.

"It was an eager, anxious crowd that waited there. Nothing could be told by the faces of the three men, but that the matter had been settled was almost a foregone conclusion.

President Wall's voice trembled and his hand trembled as he called the meeting to order.

"We are here," he said, "to hear the result of the arbitration conference. The reporters and others not belonging to the union can remain while the committee is making its report, but we propose going into executive session, and the reporters will then please retire. Mr. Booth, we will hear from you."

President Booth, of the Central Labor union, then stepped to the platform. The silence up to this point was almost oppressive. The men were awaiting developments with the most anxious attention.

Mr. Booth said: "Your committee, as directed, went to the Boody and met there with William Robison, J. F. Kumler, A. E. Lang and Mayor Emmick. At the opening of the conference we discussed the causes that brought us together. They went into the most minute details on matters of no interest or importance to us. We asked them if they were prepared to make a proposition, if not, then we were. We first proposed a compromise on the basis of the difference between $1.65, the wages paid when the strike occurred, and $2, the wages now asked. This was blandly but emphatically refused. Then came another long discussion on the cost of construction and so forth. Finally we proposed a settlement on the basis of 15 cents an hour with 20 cents for all over time. This too was refused. It was evident the companies had made up their minds not to give an inch, and so we finally left them after being in consultation for about four hours.

"Now, you all know that I have been personally opposed to this strike. I want to say right here that from this hour on I am with you. [Great applause.] Every man, woman and child in Toledo with the soul of a dog will be with you. [Enthusiastic cheering.] The war is now on and we are in it to stay."

Mr. William Fellows, a cutter at Libbey's glass works, was the next speaker. He said; "I was never so much disappointed in anything in my life. Inasmuch as the companies through Mayor Emmick had made an offer of $1.80 I was not prepared for a point blank refusal. The fact is the companies don't seem to want to settle. The representatives of the street car companies had during the four hours' discussion wandered into every minute detail of their business. We made several propositions, all of which were rejected. We asked them if they would pay the wages paid in Bay City, Saginaw or Grand Rapids—cities of about Toledo's size. They said no. We offered a compromise, as stated by Mr. Booth. Just as we arose to take our departure I made the last bid—$1.80 a day. I had not the slightest fear that it would be rejected, but it was. I turned to them and said, 'I have been opposed to this strike, and have favored a settlement, but I want to tell you that hereafter William Fellows is prepared to stand by the strikers first, last and all the times, and will do everything in my power to defeat the street car companies.' [Great cheering.] I tell you, brothers, when, after all our concessions and all our efforts to effect a settlement, they refused to give us five cents a day extra, it does seem they do not want to settle. We said we could give the facts to the public fairly and fully and I will be glad if the reporters will give the facts as we have stated them. The fight is on, boys, and it is a fight to the finish." [Cheers.]

Reynold Voit next addressed the meeting. He corroborated what the other two members had already said. "There is one thing," he said, "that I think they forgot. We began by having both companies recognize the union. The pay of union men only was to be increased and no striker was to be denied work for anything that may have occurred during the strike. The discussion was chiefly confined to side issues. The companies were very firm, and during the 4-hours session the representatives left the room five times for private consultation, but on their return each time it was the same old story. Mr. Lang had said $1.80 would bankrupt both companies. He (Voit) had said that he was certain that if the committee of which he was a member settled for less than $2 they would be hooted by the strikers. They came there in the interest of harmony and the public good. He had made up his mind that the company did not desire a settlement, inasmuch as they had gone back on their original proposition of $1.80." The address was received with the greatest applause. The outsiders then retired and the conference committee went into executive session. In half an hour or so the doors were again thrown open. President Wall refused to say anything further than that war had now been declared in earnest, and there was to be no backing down.

The strikers seemed confident, and the scouts from outlying posts reported that all the men were well satisfied.

NIGHT WITH THE STRIKERS.

Their Vigilance Never Relaxes—Some Results of Their Watching.

After the meeting of the street car men, at which the report of the committee on arbitration was accepted, the men at Carpenter's hall composed themselves for the night and attempted to get a little rest. There were about thirty men who stayed here all night and they bunked about the room as best they could. Some slept on the bare floor with their coats for pillows, some had blankets and others stretched out on chairs. None of them, however, removed their clothing, and all were prepared to go out on a moment's notice. The place looked much like a camp, and among the watchers was a BEE, who spent the night with them and participated in all of the following events. The sleep of the tired men was often interrupted, and on several occasions all were aroused on the alert. The leaders would hardly lie down when they would be wakened to receive the report of some scout. President Wall caught a few naps, while Georgs P. Stevens, his right hand man and the principal spokesman for the strikers, did not sleep a wink, but was up and doing the whole night, as he has been ever since the strike started.

The strikers had the usual number of scouts out on horseback and in buggies, and reports from various places were brought in every few minutes from some quarter. Once or twice it was thought that the officials were about to make some move from the barns, but the strikers were prepared for any emergency, and nothing of the kind occurred. The night, however, was full of important incidents, and at times matters were quite exciting about headquarters.

The officials of the two companies were also up all night, and moving about after the attempt at arbitration had ended at midnight. Manager A. E. Lang, of the Consolidated, Superintendent Denman and his assistant and Mr. Lincoln, the electrician, were especially active, and visited several of the car houses and held numerous consultations at various points. They were continually shadowed by the strikers, and their every move was at once made known at headquarters. It was reported that Mr. Lang had with him a deputy sheriff most of the time. The Robisons were also about, and Mayor Emmick figured conspicuously in the night's proceedings. His actions were far below the dignity of the mayor of the city, and showed him to be a man of little stamina. Both sides made a monkey of him, and he is evidently badly rattled.

Mayor Emmick's Early Morning Call

No events of importance occurred after midnight until 2 o'clock in the morning, when the mayor drove up to Carpenters' hall in a hack. Up to this time he had been closeted with the railroad officials in the Boody house. He was met in the hall by Mr. Stevens, Mr. John J. Carr and several other strikers, and he stated to them that he had come to make an explanation to the men and set himself right before the people.

He told them that he had used his best efforts with the railway people to get them to settle the matter, and he assured the strikers that no attempt would be made to run cars until the difficulty was settled. The few strikers present told Mr. Emmick very plainly that they did not fancy his capers since the strike had opened and insisted that he state plainly where he stood.

Just at this point a scout came in and reported that Mr. Lang was at the Monroe street powerhouse, and it was thought that some move would be made there.

This stopped the conference, and the mayor promised to meet the men at the powerhouse and talk with them there. With this he entered his hack and was driven away. The men were aroused and in a few minutes about thirty of them were on their way to the point in question. They had not yet arrived at Monroe street when the mayor in his carriage was met returning. He stopped and told them all was quiet at the powerhouse, which was afterwards proven to be the case, and then ordered his driver to take him home, thus going back on his word to talk to the boys.

THE MAYOR SURPRISED.

He Goes Back to Carpenters' Hall and Makes a Statement.

Mr. Stevens was prepared for this treachery, and, mounting the rear of the mayor's carriage, also rode home with him, but without his knowledge.

As Mr. Emmick alighted in front of his lower town residence he found Mr. Stevens by his side. He had left that gentleman down town, and to say that the mayor was surprised would but faintly express his astonishment.

Mr. Stevens was not in a very pleasant frame of mind after his long ride through the rain, and he at once demanded of the mayor his reasons for not keeping his word.

Mr. Emmick attempted to excuse himself by saying that he had waited at the power house and the men had not come.

His wait was exceedingly brief, and Mr. Stevens told him so, also insisting that the mayor return and make his statement to the men at headquarters.

At this the mayor re-entered his carriage and was driven back to the hall. On the return trip Mr. Stevens explained the strikers' situation, and the mayor learned some things regarding the strike that opened his eyes on a new light.

It was 3 o'clock when they arrived at the hall again, and most of the men had returned to sleep after their false alarm regarding the Consolidated power house.

All were again awakened and greeted the mayor pleasantly, but their reserved manner showed him plainly what they felt regarding his recent actions.

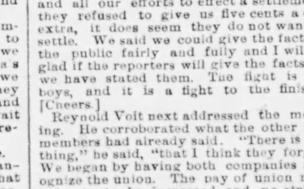
Mr. Stevens, acting as spokesman, explained the mayor's visit to the men, then turning to him said: "Mr. Emmick, we understand that you have something to say to us regarding the strike and your position on the same. Here is Mr. Wall, our president, the members of our committee and 140 men, all very anxious to hear you express yourself on that very point. Here is also a reporter of the BEE who will write down in black and white what you have to say, and in the room are about forty men who will also hear it and witness any position you may take. What you say here is of great importance, and there will be too many witnesses for you to ever back out.

"There are several things that we would like to be informed upon, and I want you to understand that we don't want any evasive answer, but what you say must be straight to the point. We would like to know why you went around this afternoon from barn to barn and talked compromise to the men instead of coming here to the committee; we would also like to have you explain your proclamation of to-day and several other points that I will bring up later."

The plan of the strike and the indorsements it had received from all labor unions in the city was explained and the strength of the American Federation of Labor exhibited. Mr. Stevens stated that the men considered that they were in the right, and since the company had refused to arbitrate, they intended to hold out for their original demands.

Mr. Emmick was very meek and took his medicine like a little man. He spoke very apologetically and did not resent any of the aspersions against him.

"It is true that I want to make some explanations to you boys," said he. "In order to get to some conciliation of this matter, I took it upon myself to send telegrams to Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and other cities asking for figures on the rates of wages paid to street car men in those cities. I did this solely for the purpose of getting reliable information. The answers were received by me, opened by me personally, and I turned the original telegrams over to Mr. Booth, the president of the Central Labor union. On the first thought I went to the barns on Cherry street and on Lower Summit with these telegrams and had a talk with the boys. Had I given the matter a second thought I should surely have come here and talked with your committee. I assure you I had no ill motive in acting as I did.



MESSAGE FROM HEADQUARTERS.

"In regard to my position toward the laboring men, I want to say to you that so sure as I am standing here, if there was a power on God's earth that would get for you what you want, no one would be more willing to help than I am. I will also protect you as far as possible. At the conference with the arbitration committee I tried to get the companies to pay $1.80 per day and I thought they would do it. I was much surprised and disappointed when they allowed the committee to leave without arriving at any settlement. I had set my heart on having the strike ended to-night, and I am disappointed, even more than you at the result of the efforts at arbitration.

"When the conference was finished I advised them not to try to run any cars before a settlement is reached, and warned them that any such attempt would probably end in bloodshed."

"If the companies attempt to run cars, will you give them police protection?" asked one of the men.

"If they ask for police I will be obliged to give them," answered the mayor, "but they shall only be to preserve the peace and prevent violence. I don't think they will attempt to run cars."

When asked if the two companies had not forfeited their charters by not running cars, Mr. Emmick stated that he was not posted on this question, but pledged himself to look it up.

Some of the grievances of the men, as have been published, were presented to the mayor, and they also proved to him where Mr. Lang had made misrepresentations. "When Mr. Lang treats with us," said Mr. Stevens, "and a conclusion is reached, Mr. Lang will put his agreement into a bond and he will sign it. We will leave him no loopholes."

The mayor was plied with many questions, and the men insisted that he give plain answers. Many of them he tried to evade, but they would sharply tell him that they wanted a distinct answer that all could understand, but even then he evaded a direct commission on some points. The strikers especially warned him against making any move in favor of either side where he had not authority.

"Did you send to the governor, in any shape or manner, for any assistance from the militia?" said Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Emmick—"I never dreamt of such a thing."

Mr. Stevens—"Will you allow scabs to come here and run these street cars?"

Mr. Emmick—"Emphatically I don't want strangers to come here and compete with our own Toledo men."

Mr. Stevens—"Now, Mr. Emmick, on behalf of our side, I want to state to you that our men have been sober and have conducted themselves in an orderly manner. They have not struck a blow at anybody and they have not destroyed any property. They want a settlement without trouble, and I pledge you that in this strike no violence whatever shall be used by the electric wage workers or the street car men of the city of Toledo."

Mr. Stevens also explained how outsiders interfered with the strike and claimed that the companies were trying to incite the people to riot so that the police could be called out against the strikers. He again warned the mayor against protecting one side and not the other.

Mr. Emmick—"I assure you that as long as I am mayor of Toledo, one side will have as much protection as another, whether one is a poor man and the other a millionaire, it matters not."

After further discussion of minor topics Mr. Stevens asked the mayor if he could assure the men that no car would move to-day. He had heard that the Consolidated had given orders to make an effort to move cars.

Mr. Emmick—"I think I am safe in assuring you that no cars will run. I warned the officials especially not to attempt to run cars, and if they do they take their own chances."

This concluded the conference and the mayor again left for home. Nothing especially important occurred during the remainder of the night.

MONEY WANTED

To Aid the Strikers in Upholding Their Demands.

Subscription lists are being circulated to-day among the business men and other citizens to raise funds for the strikers. The operation of the strike is expensive, besides the loss of time to the men. The call for aid has been most liberally responded to, and a considerable amount of money has already been raised for the good cause. Any contributions will be welcomed by the men.

STANDING FIRM.

The Strikers Holding Together and Cheerful over the Prospects.

Reports were circulated last night that the strikers were weakening, but investigation by a BEE proved these statements to be utterly false. A BEE reporter has been among the men day and night since the strike started. He has heard their conversations with each other, and has conversed with a great many of them himself and has not met a weak one. The men have been standing their tiresome guard in a cheerful manner and individually scorn with contempt all talk and offers of compromise for less than $2 per day.

At an early hour this morning a number of the barns were visited, and at each place were from a dozen to 30 men, and all were in favor of holding out. Many of them were even against the idea of submitting to arbitration.

RIOTING AVERTED.

Coolness of the Strike Leaders Prevents Serious Trouble.

The strikers showed their grit and pluck last night, and in spite of the rain and bad weather the discipline remained the same as heretofore, and not a man grumbled if he was ordered out in the storm.

Early in the evening large crowds of citizens congregated at the various car barns, where the strikers were posted, expecting to see some trouble. At the corner of Cherry street and Canton avenue the crowd was especially great, numbering several hundred and all seemed considerably excited. On this corner is located the Consolidated horse-car barns and also the car house of the Robisons, and an impression seemed to prevail that an effort would be made at one of these places to start cars. Stories of various kinds soon began to circulate here and elsewhere, nearly all detrimental to the cause of the strikers. Some of these were to the effect that the men were weakening and others of an equally disheartening nature.

It is supposed that these reports were set afloat by the agents of the railway companies and the crowds did not take kindly to them. Most of the stories were false, and the people, even outside of the strikers, did not take kindly to them. At several points the excitement was wrought up to a fever pitch, and for a time it looked as though some damage would be done to the street railway property by the friends of the strikers.

The strikers themselves, however, were cool and collected, and at this point the cool heads of the leaders asserted themselves. Scouts were sent out to deny the false reports and give the men on guard a true statement of the facts. This quieted the excitement and no doubt stopped what would have ended in a riot and probably bloodshed, besides the destruction of thousands of dollars' worth of property. It is only another instance of the peaceable nature of the strikers, and shows that they do not want any violence.

AT THE BOODY HOUSE

Where the Conference Between Employer and Employe Was Had.

Business with the street car officials was very secret around the Boody house last night. Early in the evening Jim Robison and his brother Will could be seen running around through the corridors of the Boody in a mysterious manner. Later John Kumler, their attorney, put in an appearance, followed by Manager Lang, of the Consolidated.

These were enough circumstances to permit a BEE to be on the watch for a secret meeting. The above named gentlemen then proceeded up the main stairway and were seen to go into a room on the first floor and remained there during the whole time of the meeting of the arbitration committee of the strikers, who arrived shortly after. Mayor Emmick attended the meeting and was seen by a BEE before he entered the secret conference. His only say was that he hoped the committee would come to an agreement during the evening, and that he had been trying night and day to get the men to come to a settlement. He could not talk much concerning the present meeting, and his last words were: "You are on the BEE, are you not?" The reporter answered in the affirmative, and he proceeded to say: "I wondered why the BEE said in the evening's edition that he 'had probably taken to the woods.'" He went up stairs and closeted himself with the committee.

After a long and tedius wait of about four hours the arbitration committee came down stairs and then came the chance of going before the street car magnates.

A BEE went to the door of the room and gave a knock for admission which was granted. He had just about crossed the threshold when up came a delegation of reporters.

The boys were warmly welcomed and were soon seated. Information was asked for but they did not seem inclined to give it, especially Manager Lang, who it could be seen from his expression when Jim Robison asked him if he had any objection to giving the boys a pointer, that his love for the newspaper men was not of the best.

In a short time the newspaper men discovered they were not wanted, when Jim Robison said: "Boys, I guess I will have to order a little something wet; I can not send you away dry."

The BEE asked if they had come to any settlement with the arbitration committee, and the question was answered in the negative. The question was also put to Mr. Lang directly if a car would start this morning and he would not give any answer either in the affirmative or negative. The magnates then separated.

THE ARBITRATION COMMITTEE.

The Attempt at Arbitration With the Men a Failure.

The following statement has been prepared for the public by the committee appointed by the Central Labor Union to arbitrate:

To the Citizens and Public Generally of Toledo:

The committee appointed by the street car men to effect a settlement of the present strike wish to place the following statement before the public:

The following officials of the Central Labor union, Messrs. President R. F. Booth, Vice President W. Fellows and Treasurer Reynold Voit, waited on the executive committee of the street car men Friday afternoon and after talking over the whole matter advised them to make an attempt by conciliation or arbitration to settle the present difficulty between the street railway companies and their employes.

The first half hour seemed to show no disposition to comply with the recommendations of the above named men, but at the end of the hour a secret ballot showed that the men were willing to make the attempt, and after further discussion a committee consisting of Messrs. Booth, Fellows and Voit were by unanimous vote appointed to act with full power for the car men, either by arbitration or conciliation, the only limitation placed on them being that the settlement must be over $1.75 for 12 hours' work. With these instructions the committee met Messrs. Lang and J. Robison, H. Robison, J. F. Kumler and His Honor V. J. Emmick, and told them at the commencement of the meeting that they had full power to act for the car men on the strike difficulty, with the proviso that the wages must be over $1.75. The companies were asked if they had the same power and replied yes; then, after four hours' talk, covering every point and everything connected with the street railroads in Toledo and some other places, they refused to make any offer or suggestion looking to settlement, but stuck hard and fast to the $1.75, saying they could not afford to pay any more. The strike committee made the following proposition to them: "Split the difference between the $1.75 offered and the $2 asked for by the men." Answer, positively no. After more discussion, the committee proposed $1.85 for 12 hours again, the answer was emphatically no. After more discussion the committee got up to leave, believing the companies showed no disposition to compromise between $1.75 and $2; but while standing up, with hats on, the company submitted one more proposition, namely, $1.80 a day, or 15c per hour for all motor men, conductors and drivers on both roads, and 20c per hour for over time. This was also refused, and the committee seeing no hope withdrew.

The following cities operating street railroads are given to show the justice of the workmen's position in not accepting the offer of $1.75 for 12 hours' work:

The larger cities pay more in every case, whilst Grand Rapids, Bay City and West Bay City, much smaller cities than Toledo, pay more than $1.80; Dayton pays less. The average of all these cities is $1.85. With all confidence the committee submits this statement to the good judgment of the public.

THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

How the Conference Committe Came to Appoint Three Delegates, and the Subsequent Meetings.

Yesterday afternoon after the consultation with President Booth, of the Central Labor Union, the conference committee held a session to consider the advisability of appointing a committee on arbitration. Mr. Booth urged the appointment of such a committee, and said that even if the companies would not consent to arbitration it would be a point in favor of the strikers; anyway, it would do no harm, and it would show the public that the strikers were determined to have an amicable settlement if possible.

President Wall, of the street car men, was not favorably disposed to appointing a committee, for the reason that the companies had issued their ultimatum. The matter was discussed for over an hour.

Messrs. Voit and Fellows, of the Glass-workers, two of the most level-headed men in the city, were called in, and it was finally decided to appoint Messrs. Voit, Fellows and Booth as a special committee to settle the matter. They were given full power to act.

The committee at once sent word to the street car companies that it desired a consultation. Mr. Lang and Mr. Robison answered that they would be at the Boody at 5 o'clock. The result of the consultation at the Boody is given elsewhere in full.

After the departure of the arbitration committee at 5 o'clock the conference committee went into secret session and continued therein continuously to 10:30. It did not give out what transpired at the session, but it is understood that ways and means for continuing the strike if arbitration was a failure and returning to work if it was a success was discussed and arrangements made for the carrying out of either plan, as circumstances should decide.

THE EMPLOYES

Present a Statement That They May Not Be Mi-Judged by the Public.

The following statement has been prepared by the conference committee of the strikers for publication, and it speaks very loudly for itself:

TOLEDO, O., July 18.

To the Citizens of Toledo:

We, the employes of the street railway companies of the city, desire to present a few facts to the public in order that our position may not be misunderstood. We ask nothing but what we believe is right and just and we are confident that the fair minded people of the city will uphold us.

Pursuant to a request of outside sympathizers we, contrary to our own judgment and interest, agreed to meet the representatives of the street car companies in a conference with a view of arbitrating the present trouble. Our representatives made several propositions, among which was one that had been presented to us by the company 22 hours before.

Not only did the companies refuse to endorse their own proposition, but absolutely refuse to even consider any departure from what they are pleased to call their ultimatum.

We proposed accepting the average market labor of our craft throughout the country. The following figures show what street railroad men are paid in several cities, taking the figures, let it be remembered, from the dispatches received by Mayor Emmick.

Grand Rapids, Mich., conductors and motor men, 15½ cents per hour; drivers, 15 cents per hour.

Cleveland, 12 hours per day including meals, which reduces it to about 10 working hours, conductors $1.75 per day, and $2.00 after working one year. This is 17½ cents per hour.

Columbus, conductors and motor men, 17½c per hour.

Detroit, Mich., drivers, 17c; conductors, 18c per hour.

These figures average for conductors 17½ cents per hour, whereas our original demand is but 16⅔ cents per hour.

We have presented the following grievances:

1. That while the time book calls for the legal day's work of 10 hours we are often obliged to work 13 and 14 hours, which often is distributed over 18 and 20 hours.

2. We have asked for the enforcement of the company's own rules in the matter of hours of labor and number of runs.

3. We have asked that no employe shall be oblized to run 9 and 10 hours in succession without an opportunity of even leaving the car for any purpose whatever.

4. We have objected to certain rules relative to reporting at a regulated and unnecessarily long interval before taking charge of cars.

These are a few of the supplemental grievances presented by

Respectfully yours,
T. H. WALL, President.

AFTER EMMICK'S SCALP.

"Resign, Damn You, and Leave the City—You've Disgraced Us."

"Did you see Vince Emmick anywhere?"

He was a tall, burly German, and as he propounded the above question looked very much excited.

"No, I have not. Why?"

"Because I want to get off his bond. He is a ————, and I'm going to tell him to resign and leave the city."

Vince's name is Dennis.

Consulting.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon Mayor Emmick, Manager A. E. Lang, of the Consolidated, James J. Robison and John F. Kumler, of the Robison lines are in consultation at the Boody.

It is surmised that an attempt will be made by the companies to run cars to-morrow morning.

At Carpenters' Hall.

At Carpenters' hall most of the early morning hours were spent by the men getting what rest they could, after their nights labor. They were coming in from all parts of the city wet to the skin, but still firm. Every corner and available space was occupied by some of the men who were trying to get a little sleep, while those who were on watch were quietly discussing the situation. Several baskets of lunch were sent in by sympathizing citizens and greatly enjoyed by the boys, many of whom have had only enough to eat to keep them up.

At the Broadway Barns.

The situation is the same as it has been during the strike. The men are still on duty and watching every turn made by the companies. They are all firm and will stand to a man to the end.

That Proclamation.

It is claimed on good authority that Vince Emmick's now famous proclamation was written by John Kumler and A. E. Lang, and that Mr. Emmick did not see it until he signed it. Hence the ungrammatical sentences. It is the laughing stock of the community.

Opinions of Citizens.

BEE reporters interviewed citizens this morning as to the strike, and ways and means for settlement. The general opinion seems to be in favor of arbitration, and the payment of $1.80.

John S. Kountz—"Both parties should resort to arbitration. I think it would be only just to fix wages based on an average of those paid in say six or eight cities. Of course the companies understand their own business best, but then the men have certain rights which should be recorded them.

F. B. Dodge—One thing is certain, the street car companies should start cars running. The matter of wages does not enter into consideration of this question. The companies have the privilege of paying what prices they deem right, and they also have a right to police protection.

George E. Pomeroy—I think $1.65 per day is low, and if the men have consented to work for $1.80 they are entitled to receive it. I would suggest that the car companies and the men leave the matter to the committee on arbitration.

A. E. Macomber—The men if worth anything are worth $2 per day. I consider it a colossal blunder for the company to refuse to pay $1.80. The institution or corporation has no excuse for its existence which cannot afford to pay fair wages for good work. No business has a right to exist unless it can pay fair and equitable wages for labor. Public sympatay is not supporting the company in its present position. There should be arbitration.

Chas. W. Murphy—I consider $2 a day little enough. The work is extremely hard and the hours long. It is, I understand, the average wages paid for similar work in other cities the size and population of Toledo throughout the country. I am astonished to learn that the companies refuse to give $1.80.

G. B. Hudson—The companies ought to accept the men's offer of $1.80. It is, I think, little enough. Yes, business is being affected by the strike. Of course this is a dull season, anyway, and it is fortunate that it happened at this time, but it makes business all the worse.

Isaac Lasalle, of Lasalle & Koch—I consider 15 cents an hour and 20 cents for overtime a fair and equitable proposition that the companies should promptly accedit. Our business is being effected by the strike, and a prompt settlement would be very beneficial to business.

J. N. Stockett—The men are entitled to $2, and I would like to see them receive even more. The work is onerous and the hours long. Of course the boys will make a mistake if they resort to violence, and they will lose public sympathy. As it is, public sympathy is with them, and I hope they will get their dues.

Reinhart & Murphy—The companies should submit to the demands of the men. The amount asked for is not too much, considering the hours the men are compelled to work.

E. Bateman—I think they should settle the matter themselves.

Dr. Wagar—I haven't anything to say.

Fred Kumler—"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty"—as usual Fred is noncommittal.

Justice Austin—The boys are entitled to more pay and less work.

Fred Eversman—When the supply is greater than the demand they cannot dictate the price of labor. I think it would have been wise for them to accept the $1.75 rate.

G. Herman—The companies have made concessions, and the strikers should do as they say. If they cannot afford to pay any more now, I don't see any other way out of it than for the men to return to their places.

L. R. Konepack—Many of those who are now striking will be glad to work for less than the companies offer. They should have accepted the offer made yesterday.

Wm. Baer—Pay the men the wages they ask. That is small enough for the amount of work they do.

Con Green—This thing should be settled by a committee outside of the strikers and the companies. There have been too many fingers in the pie.

E. Weed—It has cost me no less than a dollar a day for hack hire and I am, therefore, in favor of a settlement. I don't think the men have any right in preventing the companies operating the cars.

Jacob Kurtz—It ought to be settled one way or the other.

Joe Simon—I am in favor of paying the men $2.25 a day; they earn it.

John Proshaska—They should have the amount asked for.

H. Egley—They are entitled to $2. It is small enough.

The business men on the east side of Summit street, with a few exceptions, are very close with their opinions on the strike.

The wholesale men, while not particularly affected by the strike, are very anxious to see a settlement, and while not openly expressing themselves most of them are in sympathy with the men, and think that $2 is but a fair day's wages.

Barnes & Wheeler, while their trade is much cut off by the strike, think that the men are just in their demands and should receive just pay for their work.

W. H. Birkencamp—I would like to see a settlement. The men earned more than they were getting and $2 a day would not be a cent too much for their work, with the responsibility connected with it.

Mr. Cray, of Cray & Rood, the hardware dealers, was too busy for an interview, but hoped for a speedy settlement.

Sterling & Co., while thinking under the existing circumstances that the companies are paying as much as they can, feel that the men deserve what they are asking and some settlement could be made.

Keen Bros. think $2 for 12 hours' work is just and ought to be paid.

Paul Hager would like to see the men fairly treated.

F. Powell thinks that the men are deserving of what they ask, and hopes that they will be met by the companies with a just proposition.

Emerick & Smith would like to see an early settlement.

A lower Summit street liquor dealer when approached by a BEE was very much exercised over the fact that it had just Awhile ago a Washington dispatch read: "Mr. McKinley entered the house with the tariff bill under his arm." The New York World recalls the dispatch, and points out that the major enters the Ohio campaign with the tariff on his back. And the Bee predicts he will find it an "Old man of the sea" before the campaign is over.

If you don't like walking in the rain to-day, comfort yourselves with the assurance of our Prof. Foster, conveyed in to-day's weather report, that there will be no rainfall to speak of for fifty-five days after August. 1. Even if Mayor Emmick persists in "assisting" both sides the street car strike is likely to be settled by October.

The working men of Toledo are opening their eyes to the true nature of the man whom they voted for for mayor last spring. Mr. Emmick issues a proclamation in the interest of the railway corporations and publicly declares that $1.75 a day for twelve hours is liberal pay for the hardest worked class of men in Toledo. That's Emmick. Keep this record for ready reference two years hence when he will again want the suffrages of the people of Toledo.

The New York Recorder says: "Tariff reform is only another name for free trade." The people are finding that high protection is only another name for wholesale robbery. If they are driven to choose between trade in which they must pay a price unnecessarily high for everything they buy and trade that is free from all artificial restrictions, they will choose the latter. The time has gone by when shrieking "free trade" at a man will scare him away from the study of tariff reform.

This country is profoundly interested in everything that pertains to Secretary Blaine, but the wild-eyed special correspondents at Bar Harbor are making us very tired. Having worn out the stories that the secretary is dying and that he is being measured for his coffin, a bran-new yarn is now sprung that the secretary is friskily alive to future issues, and has committed his presidential boom to the nursing of a young, beautiful and talented lady, who is made out to be a sort of infant phenomenon in politics and journalism. This is hard on Gail Hamilton, or would be if it were true, which it probably isn't.

It is discovered in Columbus that an error was made in the election returns last November in the Hancock vote for member of the decennial board of equalization. One hundred votes were given to B. F. Hyatt which should have been recorded for Foster R. Warren, of Sylvania, Lucas county. The change would give Mr. Warren the office. It is said the republicans have long known of this error and purposely kept quiet, realizing that the seating of Mr. Warren would change the politics of the board. At best it is a shabby trick which is exposed none too soon. Of course Mr. Warren will be entitled to the salary which rightly belongs to him, but that is a small consideration. His experience and practical knowledge would have been of great value to the board during its deliberations.

The commission given Ben Butterworth is not acting as a muzzle of that voluble gentleman. He is in London now, and the Pall Mall Gazette interviews him. Mr. Butterworth expresses his belief that the Columbian exposition will be "a successful show," and will tend to promote commerce among nations. He adds:

"You may think it strange to talk of promoting commerce when we have built a wall across the road with the McKinley bill."

Just so. The McKinley bill is "a wall across the road" in the way of the world's fair, promotion of our commerce with the world, and every other advance. But Mr. Butterworth was not sent abroad to say so. On the contrary he was sent away to keep him silent on this very subject.

The re-nomination of Gov. Campbell is heartily indorsed by the entire democratic and independent press of the country. The many sterling qualities of our Governor stand out in bold relief, and it is conceded by all persons, except prejudiced politicians, that he is the best business governor Ohio has had for many years. The issue of the campaign will be the tariff question, and though the republicans boast of the natural republican majority in Ohio, we firmly believe, upon the question of taxation, the democratic tariff reform party is largely in the majority, and that Gov. Campbell will develop astonishing strength as the campaign progresses. It is nothing new for the people of Ohio to fight a national battle in their state contests, and the democrats are well equipped for an aggressive campaign this year. Touch elbows all along the line.

Mayor Emmick possesses the admirable faculty of getting on all sides of all questions at the same time. But he also lacks the tact of covering his tracks. He has made a consummate fool of himself in the present street car strike. He has played hot and cold with both parties. The proclamation which he issued yesterday was a gratuitous insult to the men who work more hours for less pay than any other class of citizens of Toledo. It is not the province of the Mayor to tell men what they ought to be paid, or how much ought to satisfy them. That it is his duty to preserve the peace is well known, and it will be time to exercise such lawful authority when the peace is threatened. To-day's reports show that Mayor Emmick took the back track last night and curried favor with the strikers. He is in deep water and is floundering. He is the laughing stock of both sides. He is making an ass of himself and his ears are very prominent in this street car trouble.

Commissioner Raum appears to think that with Secretary Noble under his feet he is going after this to run the pension bureau just as he pleases, and his friends the pension sharks are taking a fresh hold. It is even said he will ignore the provision inserted in the last pension appropriation bill which requires him to give next December in a statement showing the annual expenditures for pensions since the late war, the number which have been fraudulently obtained; that is, the number in which fraud has been proven, which probably is not ten per cent. of the fraudulent cases. Mr. Raum is no doubt actuated by a philanthropic desire that the people shall not be shocked and angered by a knowledge of how the pension funds are misappropriated. But he will give the required information, whatever may be his present intention. The congress which will be in session next December will not be one Mr. Raum can fool with.

A Grand Paper.

The Toledo BEE comes to us every morning bright and fresh with the latest news and full of sound democratic doctrine. It is a grand paper, and so cheap, only two cents a copy.—Troy Democrat.

Neither Thief Nor Robber.

The rooster selected by the democratic party of Ohio as its official emblem is neither a thief nor a robber. It will, therefore, be unsatisfactory to the tariff barons and their subsidized organs. The rooster has crowed over many a democratic victory, and he appears to be numerous and vigorous this year.

Pertinent Questions.

If the McKinley tariff was intended to decrease the price of tin plate, why shouldn't it decrease the price of wool and wheat? If it was intended to increase the price of wool and wheat, why shouldn't it increase the price of tin plate and glassware?—Champaign Democrat.

No Adonis.

It is alleged that President Harrison is no Adonis when he gets on his bathing suit. What are the wild waves saying?—Courier-Journal.

Down with McKinleyism.

The tariff is the overshadowing issue of the campaign—especially since McKinley, the high priest of blind and brutal trade restriction, is the republican candidate for governor.

Therefore we say:
Hurrah for Campbell!
Down with McKinleyism!!—Springfield Democrat.

Norton Complimented.

Dr. Norton, the able and active chairman of the democratic state central committee, is one of the keenest politicians in the state. You are never at a loss to know where he stands either on the issues or candidates. His prediction as to results are equally trustworthy.—Ashtabula Standard.

So is a Cemetery.

The Neal men are solid for the ticket, and the Kline men will work for the ticket. Every democrat has his war paint on, and victory is in the air. It is true the republican leaders are harmonious, and so is our cemetery. What they lack is life.—Canton News-Democrat.

Up and at Them.

From now on till the democratic state ticket is elected in November every good democrat should frown down all bickerings and recriminations in our party, and be a committee of one to work and spook for democratic principles and the ticket selected in the Cleveland convention.—Columbus Post.

Nothing Left of Them.

If farmers and others will stop to inquire how this came about and who is to blame they will knock republicanism and McKinleyism out this fall so completely that there'll be nothing left of them in the future.—Fostoria Democrat.

Cannot Start Too Soon.

Mr. Clarkson cannot start too soon on his plan of keeping the young men out of the democratic camp by literary, social and musical instrumentalities. Something extraordinary must be done at once.—N. Y. World.

National Issues.

The Ohio campaign this year will be a memorable one. The issues will be national in fact. The leading statesmen of the United States will take part, and the attention of the whole country will be centered upon the contest.—Kent News.

A Winning Ticket.

The bourbon Buckeyes nominated a winning ticket on Wednesday, one that will knock the republican party into smithereens, and dump the McKinleyites into the waters of oblivion. Mark that.—Democratic Standard (Ashtabula.)

Should Save Their Tears.

Republican editors shouldn't waste their sympathy on democrats now. Save your tears until after the November election, gentlemen, and then shed them in highly priced tin cups, made of American rolled sheet iron.—Lima Times.

From Neal's Home.

The democracy of Ross county have no quarter for McKinleyism no matter who leads the fight. We were all for Neal before the convention. We are all for Campbell now.—Cullicothe Advertiser.

Blaine's Organs.

Blaine may have gout, lumbago, nervous prostration, dyspepsia, liver complaint, and the epizootic, but his organs still vociferously declare that he's the strongest man in his party.—Chicago Times.

Rock-Ribbed Truth.

Foraker said in his speech "even the devil can't kill the democratic party." He thus announced a rock-ribbed truth, for he has tried it and came out second best.—Fayette Register-Democrat.

Russell's Laurels.

Russell Harrison has not said anything in a long time. His laurels will slip away to Col. Nicolay or Theodore Roosevelt unless he guards them a little more assiduously.—St. Louis Republic.

Second Waterloo.

The whole country is now hoping to see "Napoleon" McKinley meet his second Waterloo, and then take up his residence in the secluded St. Helena of retirement.—Boston Globe.

The Democratic Rooster.

Every democratic in Ohio will be pleased to know that his ticket is headed by the good old democratic rooster.—Zanesville Signal.

No McKinley Badges.

You don't suppose there are any wool growers in Ohio who will wear McKinley tin badges this fall, do you?—Pomeroy Democrat.

More Pronounced.

On the tariff issue Campbell should be elected if the people hold the same views they did last year. We believe they do, only a little more so.—Upper Sandusky Union.

No Such Word as Fail.

In the platform of the democratic party there are no mistakes, and in the vocabulary of its gallant standard bearer there is no such word as fail.—Middletown Signal.

The People's Friend.

Gov. Campbell will get away with McKinley. He is the people's friend and the friend of honest government.—Shelby County Democrat.

TALKING ON THE WEATHER

For Fifty-Two Days After the First of August

There Will Be Very Little Rain Fall Reported.

Many Dangerous Storms Are Scheduled to Make Their Appearance During the Next Few Months.

Special to the Bee.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 18.—My last letter gave forecasts of the storm wave due to cross the continent from 18th to 22d and the next will be due to leave the Pacific coast about the 24th, cross the Rocky-Allegheny valley from the 25th to 27th and reach the Atlantic coast about the 28th.

The important feature of this storm wave will be that it will complete the last heavy rain period of the 1891 crop season.

I do not mean to say there will be no more rain but that for about 52 days following August 1 the rains will not be general.

The center of this storm wave will probably enter the continent about the north line of California and pass through Montana, South Dakota and eastward along the latitude of northern Iowa and Ohio and the heaviest rains, hails, gales and tornadoes will occur south of that line.

The storm will be at its greatest force on the 24th and 25th when its center will be in the Rocky mountains and will gradually decrease in force as it moves eastward.

The destructive force of these storms is usually manifest from 500 to 1,000 miles southeast of the storm center.

The storm forces will be more evenly distributed during August and where local drouths shall have continued to the close of July there will be great danger of injurious drouths in August. But these local drouths are not expected to cover large areas and will probably be confined to lands near sea level.

The storm wave of July 6 to 10 developed a tropical hurricane on the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico which greatly affected the weather in the United States causing very cool weather in the northern states.

I have not yet learned the periods of these tropical hurricanes, but I will repeat that 1891-2 will have more of these dangerous storms than have been experienced within the same time for 60 years past, and they will be awfully destructive during October of this year.

Along the coasts of the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico from the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, Canada, to Central America, the shipping interests and coast dwellers will suffer greatly from these terrible hurricanes during September, October and November, and whatever can be done to protect life and property should have immediate attention.

This forecast is not unnecessarily sensational, and will be found to be far short of portraying the serious results that will come from these great storms. Whoever will study my forecasts of the destructive storms of last month, published in 1890 and early in this year, will realize that I am not guessing at these important weather events, and I feel it to be my duty to give serious warning of dangers ahead.

Whoever heeds these predictions will not regret that they did so, and whoever scorns and ridicules them will see their own folly when it is too late. These hurricanes will seriously affect the weather and crops in the United States.

Weather and Science Notes.

The eruption of Mount Vesuvius suggests that volcanic action is influenced by the same sources that are our storms. An investigation of this subject will develop a remarkable and interesting coincidence in great storms, great sunspots, great activity in volcanoes and earthquakes, great displays in auroras or northern lights, and in unusual electric disturbances on the earth.

The theory I advocate declares that all all these disturbances are caused by electrical forces which reach their maximum influences by certain planetary positions.

In making a revolution around the sun each planet causes at least two of these disturbances—Mercury every 44 days and Neptune every 40 years. These electrical disturbances are probably of regular recurrence throughout the universe in all the relations of our sun with the other stars, and of each star cluster with every other.

Our sun revolves around the center of our star cluster in about 25,740 years and that center must be a great body of concentrated electricity. Taking that center as our sun's primary the sun would pass its equinox every 12,870 years and half way between these periods pass through the center of our star cluster or through the plane of the milky way.

This would place the great disturbances at 6,435 years apart, and I will suggest that scientific research may yet reveal that Noah's flood and the great cataclysm of fire and gravel—about which so much evidence is found in geology, in the Bible books of Genesis and Job and in the legends of all races and peoples—may yet be found to have occurred when our sun last passed its equinox.

Electricians say that currents of electricity move west in the surface of the earth and that the strongest currents pass under the active volcanos. Another step in the same direction will lead them to admit all the truth and that electric currents cause the heat we find in the earth which causes the volcanos by igniting the earth's combustibles. W. T. FOSTER.

MURDERED BY A MOB.

More Depredations by Chinese Rioters.

An English Officer and Methodist Missionary Killed on the Streets by the Heathens.

San Francisco, July 18.—The steamer Belgic arrived yesterday from China and Japan. The Shanghai Mercury of June 8 announces the murder of an English customs-house officer, A. W. Green, and of Mr. Argent, a member of the Methodist mission, by Chinese rioters at Wuhsieip.

A number of houses were burned during the riot. The ladies of the mission were taken aboard the steamer Tepsing by Capt. Cain, while the bodies of the murdered men were taken aboard the United States ship Palos.

It appears that Argent was knocked down on the street by a rock from a boy's hand and the mob fell upon him, shattering his head with a large slab.

Green was reported to have had his throat cut by the mob. It is stated that the Canton woman in the latter's household was murdered by the mob after she killed three of their number with a sword.

The threatened outbreak at Kinkiang did not assume very great proportions, owing to the presence of three gunboats which landed their forces and held the mob in check. The reports from other quarters, however, show that the destruction of property continues.

Russia's Power.

BERLIN, July 18.—The Militar Wochenblatt publishes a sensational editorial in which it says that there are now so many Russian troops concentrated on the German frontier that the power of Russia predominates. The Militar Wochenblatt then declares that it is imperative that immediate steps be taken to restore the balance of military power on that frontier.

McKinley Shouts.

America for Americans shouts a McKinleyite—Just gaze on my Welsh tin badge.—Massillonian.

NO USE TALKING

To General Manager Ashley of the Ann Arbor—The Grand Officers Will Meet the President of the Road.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad trouble is no nearer a settlement to-day than when the men first made their demands. Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the other grand officers have become tired of talking with General Manager H. W. Ashley of the road and have refused to deal further with him, as it is only a waste of time and a useless flow of words. They have most of them left town for Sunday, as has the committee representing the trainmen, and will return Monday and meet President Ashley when the matter will be settled by arbitration.

TAKEN TO THE FARM.

A 12-Year-Old Boy Who Stole Seven Hundred Dollars.

WAUSEON, July 18.—(Special)—Judge Handy sentenced Claude Miller, aged 12 years, to the Lancaster reform farm. Young Miller was arrested by Sheriff Connell at Fayette last Monday, charged with stealing $725. He was a small boy, but he wanted a big pile. He plead guilty to-day, however, and was sentenced as above.

READY FOR THE BATTLE.

Soldiers Under Arms in Nashville.

The Miners Have Control of the Town of Briceville and Bloodshed is Feared.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 18.—The situation at Coal creek and Briceville remains unchanged except that it is more than ever evident that the convicts will not be allowed to work in that mining district.

Gov. Buchanan passed through Knoxville en route to Nashville. He did not deny the gravity of the situation.

The little band of militia on guard at Briceville would not be able to withstand a moment a charge of the two thousand miners who are well armed.

The majority of the miners are mountain men accustomed from boyhood to carrying arms, and are expert shots.

To-day is election day at Coal creek, and it is known that a large supply of whisky and beer has been shipped there from this city. It is confidently expected that if no outbreak occurs to-day bloodshed will be averted.

The leaders of the miners are calm, cool-headed men, and are doing all possible to keep down trouble. They say frankly to-day that they hoped to keep the turbulent spirits quiet until the militia was withdrawn and then they would proceed by force to overpower the guards and liberate the convicts, who would be furnished citizen's clothing in order that they might make their escape into Kentucky.

Col. Sevier, who is in command of the state guard, has been fired at several times, but it is believed that this was being done to intimidate him.

A special from Nashville says that five Memphis companies and one from Nashville are ready to leave for Briceville at any hour's notice. This does not amount to much, however, as none of them could reach the seat of trouble in time to take part in the struggles. The latest news from Briceville is to the effect that no trouble is expected to-night, but to-morrow is looked forward to with gravest apprehensions and great anxiety.

OHIO BAR ASSOCIATION.

It Adjourns to Meet at Put-in-Bay Next Year.

The Ohio Bar association finished its work at Put-in-Bay at noon yesterday and adjourned to meet at the same place the second Wednesday in July, 1892.

The standing committees were reported or the year, and except a lively discussion on Mr. Cook's paper on the pardon system, nothing of importance was done yesterday.

The meeting is regarded by all as one of the most pleasant in the history of the association.

RATES ON EXHIBITS

To and from Points in This Territory

To the World's Columbian Exposition—The Arrangements Have Been Changed as Follows:

The railroads agreed on a system of transportation from this territory on exhibits to the World's Fair some time ago. There were some mistakes made. Another meeting was called and following is the result as corrected:

First.—All articles sent to the Exposition should be billed thereto, and will be charged to the Chicago junctions with the Illinois Central railroad at the full tariff rates to Chicago.

Bills of lading must show the precise routes by which exhibits are to be transported, specifying in detail every carrier from starting points to the Exposition in order that exhibits may be returned by the exact routes first used.

In addition to Chicago rates as aforesaid, exhibits will incur the charge of the Illinois Central Railroad Company from those junctions to the Exposition grounds, terminal service charge (if any,) which may be required by the Exposition management, and demurrage upon detained cars as may be hereafter determined and announced in connection with Exposition exhibits.

The Joint Committee reserves the right to hereafter require prepayment of these items, (demurrage excepted.)

Second.—Horses and other valuable and fancy animals intended for exhibition will be charged tariff rates in both directions, the rules of the official classification to apply, which permit the free carriage of one attendant in charge of each consignment of horses, etc., of one carload or less.

Third.—With the exceptions next above noted, exhibited articles including cattle, hogs and sheep, will be returned free under the rules of the official classification from the Chicago junctions with the Illinois Central Railroad Company, over the railways in the territory of the Joint Committee, only on the following terms and conditions:

(a) Paid freight bills which should show the precise route first used or original bills of lading and certificates signed by the proper officer of the Exposition, must be presented to show that articles tendered for free return are entitled thereto as unsold exhibits which have not changed ownership.

(b) They must be tendered to the railroad which carried them to Chicago.

c) They must be consigned to the points from which they were sent on the forward journey and over the same routes first used.

(d) Releases must be executed relieving the carriers from liability on the return journey in consideration of free return.

(e) They must be tendered free of charges as no charges will be advanced on articles returned free.

(f) Persons accompanying exhibits returned free will be charged fare.

Fourth.—Certificates and releases will be attached to the manifests.

Fifth.—The responsibility of the lines in the territory of the joint committe will terminate on the forward journey and begin on the return journey at the Chicago junctions with the Illinois Central Railroad Company, and will, in any event, be limited by the provisions and conditions of the official classification to and from the Exposition grounds.

Catch a Tartar.

And when caught scrub well with SOZODONT. Don't spare it. Brush for dear life. If you destroy it all the better for you and your teeth. It will destroy the health of the mouth, its beauty, and your sweet breath.

MET DEATH ON THE ROAD

A Bold Abduction and Bloody Murder.

Miss Christie Warden the Victim of a Fiend.

Snatched from the Company of Her Mother and Friends She is Dragged Into the Woods by a Lover and Killed.

HANOVER, N. H., July 18.—As Miss Christie Warden, accompanied by her mother, her sister Fanule and Louise Goodell, were returning on foot to their home, located one mile from the village, at a late hour last night, Frank Almy, about 30 years of age, jumped into the road in front of them and seizing Christie by the arm said: "I want you."

The mother and sister attempted to defend her. Almy fired at them but missed. They ran for assistance. Then Almy dragged his victim into the bushes and shot her twice through the head, one shot tearing out her left eye. When help arrived the girl was dead and her body was stripped of nearly every article of clothing.

Almy has fled. Miss Warden was a beautiful and most estimable young woman, about 25 years old, a graduate of the State Normal school, and a popular teacher.

Almy was a former employe of her father and his attention to Miss Christie had been repulsed. She was the daughter of Andrew Warden, a wealthy farmer and a leading citizen.

It was midnight before the news reached the village. Sheriff Foster is sending out searching parties in all directions. Almy is about five feet ten inches tall, has a dark mustache, and is of pleasing address and well educated.

The father of the murdered girl offers a reward of $500 for the capture of the murderer. The town will undoubtedly offer an additional reward.

THE TRUTH ADMITTED.

Hon. Bob Nevin, of Dayton, says McKinley Will Have a Hard Fight.

Hon. Bob. Nevin, of Dayton, who it will be remembered was temporary chairman of the late republican state convention, attended the meeting of the State Bar association at Put-in-Bay.

In speaking of the coming campaign Mr. Nevin expressed himself to a BEE as being rather fearful of the way the people will consider the tariff question.

"What will McKinley's majority be Mr. Nevin," said the BEE.

"That is a difficult question to answer. The farmers are not satisfied with the position the republican party has assumed on the tariff, and I do not think his plurality will be much more than Ryan's which was about 11,000.

"Not only the farmers are dissatisfied, but the mechanics are kicking vigorously in Dayton. I am not able to speak for the other cities in Ohio, but I know that they are not pleased in our city. This is hard for a republican to admit, but it is the truth."

CAMPBELL'S NOMINATION.

A good many thousand independent voters in Ohio will support Gov. Campbell because of the enemies he has made.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

The democrats of Ohio have nominated for governor the one man whom it will be hardest for the republicans to beat.

And yet the republicans must beat him or they will be lost, horse, foot and dragoons, in the autumn of '92.—N. Y. Herald.

Ohio's democratic governor, Campbell, "the man who has never met defeat"—as his friends call him—served gallantly in the war for the union. His splendid fighting qualities should assure another great victory next November for the great Buckeye leader.—Boston Globe.

If the democracy of Ohio stick to this low tariff tax they will win a famous victory, not only for themselves but for the democracy of the whole country and for all the people of the country. The few favored beneficiaries of the McKinley spoliation system will be the only ones who will not enjoy the fruits of the victory.—Chicago Herald.

The record of Governor Campbell is a splendid one, and he is head and shoulders above any other aspirant for the leadership. His administration will not suit the machine politicians of Cincinnati it did meet with the approbation of the people of the state, and to have thrown him aside would have resulted in certain defeat.—New Orleans Delta.

The democrats of Ohio have wisely determined that the fight shall be on the issues on which the people are clearly with them. "We accept the issues tendered to us by the republican party," is the declaration of the platform, while the speeches of Gov. Campbell, and of Gen. Ryan, who nominated the candidate, set the tune for the campaign.—N. Y. World.

It will be a great campaign—a campaign that will solidify the democratic party and draw into its ranks every wide-awake democratic instinct. It utterly dwarfs the petty factions of Cincinnati ward politics. It makes a supreme issue for or against democracy. It shows that in Campbell the Ohio democrats have a leader with the courage of the statesman who acts while others hesitate.—St. Louis Republic.

Not only in their nomination of Governor Campbell for re-election, but also in the make-up of their platform, the democrats of Ohio have realized the expectations and hopes of their party friends throughout the country. They will make a square and manly fight with the enemy—no dodging of issues and no concealment behind breastworks.—Atlanta Journal.

The renomination of Gov. Campbell by the democrats of Ohio was in accordance with popular expectation. His candidacy was the logical result of McKinley's nomination by the republicans, which was in the nature of a challenge to make the fight on the tariff issue. Campbell is as firm in his allegience to the idea of tariff reform as McKinley is to the doctrine of protection, and the fact that the canvass will be led on both sides by thoroughly representative men will greatly stimulate public interest in the contest.—Kansas City Star.

A better candidate the Buckeye democrats could not have named, but they must abandon fractional strife now if they would win in the pending battle. A united democracy can win in Ohio with McKinleyism for issue. A democracy torn and rent by intestinal quarrels can not hope for victory. The Ohio democrats should remember that they are not engaged in a purely local struggle. The election of McKinley would be a national disaster, the responsibility for which would not be pleasant for the Cincinnati recalcitrants to bear.—Chicago Times.

The unexpected did not happen at the Ohio democratic convention. Governor Campbell expected to have 500 votes on the first ballot to 200 for all others, and he bettered his expectations. The convention was dominated by his friends, who justly displayed their loyalty to him in spite of the noisy threats of the enemies he had made by proving himself more solicitous for the public welfare than for anything else. In all that pertained to the nomination of its candidates the convention displayed wisdom and sound judgment. The speeches made by Chairman Taurman, Gen. Ryan and Governor Campbell himself were bugle calls to the support of honest government and a sound public policy.—Philadelphia Times.

The contest in Ohio involves the personality of the candidates only in a secondary way. The principle which Mr. McKinley espouses and Gov. Campbell and his party oppose is the real issue. The republican papers are beginning to talk about divisions in the democratic party, with the wish the father of the thought, but it will be found when the votes are counted after the election in next November that all the democrats in Ohio are loyal, and if the Free Press is not much mistaken, that many republicans have cast their vote in the same interest. There can be no shirking the conclusion that the fight the country over is to be squarely on the issue of the tariff, and the best principle is sure to win. We all know what the best principle is.—Detroit Free Press.

BIDS OPENED.

The Natural Gas Trustees Hold a Meeting To-day.

The natural gas trustees held a meeting this morning and opened the bids received for piping the city in districts 5 and 9, and 3 and 7. But two bids were received, one from the Lafayette Construction company (the Detwiler syndicate), the other from James Murdock. Geo. K. Detwiler and Robert McCaskey appeared as the bondsmen for the Lafayette Construction company.

The bids were as follows:

Lafayette Construction company, cast iron, 8 inch, $1.07, 6 inch, 8.04, 4 inch, 60c; wrought iron, 8 inch, $1.40, 6 inch, $1.04, 4 inch, 64c, 3 inch, 50c; 2 inch, 35c, 1¼ inch, 27c.

James Murdock, district 3 and 7, cast iron, 10 inch, $1.36, 8 inch, $1.05, 6 inch, 82c, 4 inch, 60c; wrought iron, 10 inch, $2.19½, 8 inch, $1.44, 6 inch, $1.05, 4 inch, 65c, 3 inch, 55c, 2 inch 40c, 1¼ inch, 33c. The contract will be let to the lowest bidder.

E. F. Powell presented a bill to lay 2,560 feet of 4 inch pipe at 70c.

THE ELLIOT TRIAL.

He Who Spares the Guilty Threatens the Innocent.

COLUMBUS, July 18. — Colonel Holmes after occupying the floor for five hours, closed his opening argument in the Elliot murder trial yesterday. He ably set forth the case and closed with an eloquent peroration, the last clause of which directed to the jury is as follows:

"From the counsel on the other side you will hear a plea for the prisoner that will touch your hearts, and see manly tears meant to move you to mercy, but remember A. C. Osborne's lips are sealed forever, his throbbing heart is stilled for all eternity, and the green hillock hides from mortal view in the bosom of mother earth his ghastly wounds. But his silent lips must speak to your attentive ears the dreadful word, 'murder, murder, murder.' And remember that he who spares the guilty threatens the innocent." Captain Barger followed for the defence and occupied the remainder of the day.

GOOD BYE, NEUKOM,

Say His Associates on the K. P. Building Board.

Farewell Banquet Tendered to Treasurer Albert Neukom on the Eve of His Departure for Europe.

A very pleasant party of gentlemen seated themselves around the banquet board about 9 o'clock last evening at the Wabash cafe. It was all a surprise, too; that was the best part of it. Albert Neukom, treasurer of the K. of P. building board, was the cause of it all, as he is shortly going to Europe, and the other members of the board thought that a little surprise of this nature would top off in a fitting style the few last days before his departure and give him something of an unusually pleasant character to think of during the voyage over.

Beside the principal guest of the evening there were present, J. D. Batch, G. Hofer, J. W. Greene, S. A. Court, R. Y. French, H. C. Wilhelm, E. E. Dale, H. E. Brown, Thos. Kewley, S. D. Dare, Contractor Sheehy and Mr. Groenewald. A short meeting was first held at Pythian Castle, but no word was dropped of the approaching banquet, and Mr Neukom was as innocent of anything unusual as the flowers that bloom in the spring tra la.

An early adjournment was taken ostensibly to go down and make Mr. Neukom treat, which he readily consented to do. Then with all the accompaniments of red fire, quick curtains and clash of instruments the banquet was sprung on the unsuspecting treasurer.

They waded through consomme Sebastian, paused to toy with broiled Mackinaw trout, wandered on through green corn and celery four feet high, lingered with the chicken salad, fried frogs au gratin, French peas, roast spring chicken on toast, veal patties a la Bechamel, and a myriad of other good things and baited at Russian ice cream and cafe noir. Good? Well rather.

Mr. Dare arose and said: "We are met here for the purpose of bidding farewell to one of our members, one who has perhaps worked harder than any other to make our work a success. This gathering is a testimony of our appreciation of his efforts, and I am sure we all wish him a bon voyage and a safe return."

Mr. Neukom responded briefly, thanking the members for their thoughtfulness and kindness. "This kindness on your part," he said. "I shall remember as long as I live. The welfare of the castle, our home, is the question uppermost in my heart, and it pleases me greatly to learn that my efforts in that direction are appreciated. One thought before I sit down. I hope the plumber bill is paid before I get home." (Laughter.)

Remarks were made by S. A. Court, J. W. Greene, Thos. Kewley and others. The Press of Toledo was thanked for the many courtesies it had extended to the K. of P., and good cheer and royal fellowship floated around in generous quantities.

Mr. Neukom sails with his wife from New York, for Antwerp, Wednesday, on the Red Star Line. They will go directly to Switzerland, and spend a few weeks in the mountains, and after a short sojourn in London and a run up in Scotland, they will return home after an absence of two months.

SEIZED OUR FISHERMEN.

Seven Boats Captured by a Canadian Cruiser.

The Boats Claim They Were Fishing in American Waters and Demand Protection.

Bangor, Me., July 18.—The following telegram was sent to-day to Secretary Foster at Washington by Congressman Boutelle: "The deputy collector of customs, at Eastport, Me., sends the following telegram in response to my inquiry:

"'Eastport, Me., July 17, 1891.

"'To the Hon. C. A. Boutelle, Bangor, M.: Dominion fishing cruiser, Dream, seized seven American fishing boats on Thursday forenoon in this harbor. The crews were landed here. The boats were towed to St. Andrews, N. B. The occupants of the boats claim they were fishing in American waters and ask the protection of our government.

'F. E. Lutt, Deputy Collector.'

"Will you please advise the State Department and take such measures as may be deemed requisite for official ascertainment of the facts and the protection of the rights of our people. Looks like an attempt to annoy and harass Americans at a time when the Maine coast is most thronged with pleasure seekers from all parts of the country.

C. A. Boutelle, M. C."

Went Away With the Cash.

BOSTON, July 18.—President J. Hollis Kenny, of the Order of the Reliable Fellowship, an association organized under New Hampshire laws on April 1 last, is said to have disappeared with the entire funds of the order, amounting, it is estimated, to nearly $2,000. The losers are almost wholly a poor class of women and a few men, and will average about $40 for each.

Sailed Away to Death.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 18.—On Wednesday evening Edward D. Wolf, Clarence Murphy, Edward Duggan and Wm. McDonald, ranging in age from 16 to 18, went out in a sail boat in the harbor and have not yet been heard of. It is feared that their boat capsized in a squall and that they were drowned. An empty boat was found down in the harbor last evening.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who Are Hustled for Time.

The Isabella Circle

Meets with Mrs. Rose L. Segur Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The literary exercises will consist of a paper by Mrs. C. Q. Murphy relating to the Isabella historic era. All interested in a woman's clubhouse at the Columbian fair are cordially invited.

He Waived Examination.

This morning Leroy E. Barnes who was arrested on a warant sworn out by Berdan & Co., for the embezzlement of $1,900, appeared before Justices Enright and Austin, waived examination and his bail was placed at $2,000. Not being able to give it he was taken to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Fire on Erie Street.

Last evening at 6:54 an alarm of fire was sent into No. 3 house from J. B. Shepler's trunk factory, on Erie street. The engine and hose cart responded and succeeded in extinguishing the flames in a short time. The fire caught in the dry kiln over the engine room of the factory and done damage to the amount of $100, which was fully insured.

Missed the Boat.

A party of 14 excursionists from Fayette, Ohio, on their way to Lakeside were very much disappointed this morning by missing the boat. Some misunderstanding as to the time of the boat's leaving was the cause. Consequently the party has been footing it around the city seeing the sights, and will return to Fayette this evening.

A Joint Meeting.

The National Union cabinets of Lucas and Cuyahoga counties in Ohio, and of Wayne county, Mich., will meet in their second annual picnic and reunion, next Tuesday at Put-in-Bay. The meeting last year was a great success, and this year it will be much larger. Lucas County Cabinet and friends will go over on the City of Toledo.

To Keep the Northwestern College Going.

Strenuous efforts are being made to reorganize the Northwestern Ohio Medical college, and it is quite probable that the institution will be ready to receive students at the commencement in September. The chairs, it is understood, have about all been filled with some of Toledo's most prominent physicians, and it is the intention of the faculty to start out on a firmer basis than ever before. Many of those interested last year will continue in their places.

Social Purity Conference at Deshler.

A social purity conference for northwestern Ohio will be held at Deshler, Henry county, July 30 and 31. Mrs. Monroe, the president of the O. W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Webb will be present. An instructive and interesting program has been prepared. The W. C. T. U., the Y. M. C. A., Y. P. S. C. E., Epworth league and Sunday schools are requested to send delegates, who will receive free entertainment. Names of delegates must be sent to Mrs. E. C. Olmstead, Deshler, Henry county.

Charles Sumner Lodge, K. of P.

Last evening at Pythian castle occurred the public installation of officers and entertainment of Charles Sumner lodge, K. of P. The lodge room was handsomely decorated and Uhl's orchestra discoursed delightful music during the evening. There were vocal selections by George Colton, Mrs. Geo. Hook, C. L. Lewis, and a quartet consisting of Mesdames Hook and Miller and Messrs. Colton and Lewis. The officers installed were: Past chancellor, J. W. Cram; chancellor commander, Karl H. Fiesinger; vice chancellor, Dr. L. T. Canfield; prelate, L. H. Coburn; master-at-arms, F. M. Funk; inner guard, J. S. Keith, and outer guard, J. W. Flowers.

The Trinity K. T. Will Camp at Put-in-Bay.

The Trinity Company No. 9, Knights of Temperance, will go into camp at Put-in-Bay on Monday, and will remain there for a week. This is one of the strongest organizations of Trinity church, and about forty boys will go down in full uniform. The Rev. Charles Scadding, the warden of the company, will accompany them, and will see that military discipline is observed. Owing to the number of friends who have signified their intention of visiting the camp and seeing the dress parade, the cook has been authorized to furnish them with refreshments at a small extra charge. A special excursion for the benefit of the company will be given on the City of Toledo on Wednesday, July 22, tickets for which may be purchased from any of the members.

Alumni Association.

A meeting was held last evening at the rooms of the Toledo Business college for the organization of an "Alumni Association," the object of which is to hold together the young men and women who

THE CHILD IN THE CHURCHYARD

A mother and her little child
Went hand-in-hand the churchyard through.
The woman's heart with grief was wild,
The maid knew naught, her years were few.

With eyes unvexed the wee one cried,
"How happily the green grass waves!"
The mother smiled and then she sighed,
"You do not know it grows on graves!"

The wee maid then stooped to smell
Some violets starting from the ground.
Sweet innocent, how could she tell
They blossomed on a new-made mound!

Against a shaft of marble white,
Where graveyard ivy crept and clung,
Leaning a mass of ringlets bright,
A merry, childish lilt she sung.

Catching her mother by the gown,
"What is this pretty place?" she said;
The woman answered, looking down,
"The silent city of the dead!"

She knew the words as yet would be
Unmeaning to the questioner's ears,
Nor would she understand why she
Was answered with a storm of tears.

There is a grape vine in Santa Barbara planted in 1830, which, it is claimed, is the largest in the world. It covers a superficial area of 12,000 feet, and produces from 10,000 to 12,000 pounds of grapes annually —enough to make from 750 to 800 gallons of wine.

A newspaper in the gypsy jargon, the Romany tongue, is soon to be published in England with the expectation of making it the organ of the wandering people. It will be edited by George Smith, the "king" of the English gypsies, who counts upon getting 20,000 subscribers to it.

Voting day in Japan presents some curious sights. The voters have to don their best garments and proceed to the voting counter, there to ballot without any parleying as soon after 8 o'clock as possible. After casting their ballots they make a bow to the assemblage present, in which their heads nearly strike the floor, and retire as silently as they came.

The fees incidental to the obtaining of the title of baron in Germany are said to figure up at about $5,000, that of count $20,000, duke $50,000, and a prince $70,000. They say one of the reasons why Bismarck didn't accept the title of duke of Lauenburg was on account of the expense involved, though it is doubtful if he would have taken it had it been brought to him on a silver tray.

A big leopard seal came up in the midst of a lot of bathers at Santa Barbara, Cal., causing a good deal of alarm at first, as some thought the creature a shark or sea serpent. Some of the boys barked like a seal and the visitor seemed for a time to think it was among friends of its own kind and kept coming closer, until finally taking in the situation it turned tail and fled out to sea again.

George Washington knew the value of newspaper advertising. In a reproduction of a facsimile of its first number, printed 118 years ago, the Baltimore American displays a half column "ad" by the father of his country, announcing that he had bought 10,000 acres of land which he divided into homesteads and was ready to place upon the market. George was a great man, but he had an eye to business.

Telegraphy without wires is said to have been accomplished in England. Mr. Preece, the head electrician of the postal system, succeeded in establishing communication across the Solent to the Isle of Wight, and telegraphed also across the River Severn without wires, merely using earth plates at a sufficient distance apart. He is now proposed to make a practical use of this system in communicating with lightships.

Fifty years ago a dress suit of black broadcloth was the everyday attire of many gentlemen and most clergymen in New York, and it was worn in the street as well as at home. Fashions for men changed, but Hannibal Hamlin did not, and in time his dress coat became remarkable. Some old-fashioned clergymen, like Rev. Dr. Brown, of Westminster Presbyterian church, Utica, cleave to the clawhammer in the pulpit and make it in their case a clerical robe.

The London sewer commissioners have directed their sanitary committee to report upon the advisability of erecting a crematory. Mr. Matthouse, one of the board, pointed out that 91,243 bodies were buried last year in the cemeteries of the capital; that in many places they lay 14 deep; that the situation was growing worse every year, and that a reform of some kind was imperative. High medical authority had declared already that the state of the cemeteries demanded the intervention of the government. Cremation is the only practical remedy, and prejudice against it is disappearing fast, he says.

Between 60,000,000,000 and 100,000,000,000 codfishes are taken from the sea around the shores of Newfoundland every year. A single cod yields something like 3,500,000 eggs each year, and over 8,000,000,000 have been found in the roe of a single cod. A herring of six or seven ounces in weight is provided with 30,000,000 ova. After making all reasonable allowances for the destruction of eggs and of the young, it has been calculated that in three years a single pair of herrings will produce 150,000,000.

The butcher's block has undergone a remarkable evolution. Not only are large and perfect tree stumps of hard wood more and more difficult to obtain, but even the best of them crack and split most unaccountably. The modern first class chopping block has therefore become a square mass made up of cubes of carefully selected wood bolted and then cross-bolted together, after being so arranged that the chopping upon them will be done on top instead of with or against the grain. These blocks are very costly, but they last a long while.

During the several freshets which have occurred in the Susquehanna river the last spring a vast amount of "culm" from the anthracite coal fields floated down the river with the debris, coming out of the north branch and its tributaries. Large quantities of this culm, or coal dirt, which was washed from the huge banks of that material at the coal breakers, lodged at the heads of the several islands opposite and above the city of Harrisburg, and recently parties have secured tons of it by digging it out of the sand and screening it, producing a good quality of pea and chestnut coal for boiler use. A considerable quantity of egg or larger sized coal is also gathered from the bottom of the river, where it has lodged among the gravel, and is removed in a perfectly clean state All the larger sizes of coal have become more or less rounded by the action of the water. Tons of this material are gathered during the summer when the river is low.

Wheelmen are Turning the Record at Detroit.

Races at Ft. Wayne and Other Places.

The Western Association is All Right, So They Say—Games Played Yesterday and Gossip at Home and Elsewhere.

DETROIT, July 18.—Between four and five thousand people witnessed the first day's racing of the twelfth annual meet of the league of American wheelmen at the Driving park, yesterday afternoon. The day was an almost perfect one save for the wind, which was dead against the riders in the stretch. All the events were hotly contested. The event of the day was the riding of Banker and Brinker, of the Buffalo Athletic club for the half-mile tandem record. They made the distance in 1:08, breaking the best previous record of 1:13½, made at Peoria, Ill, last fall. The results were as follows:

First event, one mile novice, safety—L W Schimmel, Detroit wheelmen, first; H A Cossitt, Owassa, Mich. Time, 3:08.

Second event, one mile novice, ordinary—W L Marks, Detroit wheelmen, first; O W Slocum, New Haven, Mich., second; C H Christ, Tonawanda, N Y, third. Time, 3:06 2-5.

Third event, one mile, Detroit Wheelmen club handicap, safety—J M Keenan, 50 yards, first; L A Lafferty, scratch, second; H Dickinson, 70 yards, third. Time, 2:50 2-5.

Fourth race, half-mile, L A W championship ordinary—A A Zimmerman, N Y A C, New York, first; A H Githens, Hyde Park, Ill, second; W W Taxis, A C S N, Philadelphia, third. Time, 1:18 3-5.

Fifth event, one mile, open safety—Geo R Barrett, Chicago, first; H C Tyler, Highlandville, Mass, second; E C Bode, Chicago, third. Time, 2:32 1-5.

Sixth event, half-mile, even ordinary—A A Zimmerman, N Y A C, New York, first; H A Githens, Hyde Park, Ill, second; W M Carman, Woodstock, Ont, third. Time, 1:20 3-5.

Seventh event, one mile, L A W championship, safety—W F Murphy, N Y A C, New York, first; F H Tuttle, I C C, Chicago, second; J M Worden, Springfield, Mass, third. Time, 2:56¾.

Eighth event, one mile handicap, ordinary—E W Ballard, Chicago, 100 yards, first; J D Draper, A C S N, Philadelphia, second; J R Hozleton, A C S N, Philadelphia, Time, 2:31 4-5.

Ninth event, one-fourth mile, L A W championship, safety—W W Taxis, A C S N, Philadelphia, first; W C C Thorne, C C C, Chicago, second; E P Burnham, Boston, Mass, third. Time, 36 4-5.

Tenth event, three mile lap ordinary. There was only three starters in this event but it was the prettiest race of the day, resulting in a tie between A A Zimmerman, N Y A C, New York, and H A Githens, Hyde Park, Ill.; W M Carman, Woodstock, Ont., third. Time, 9:09 4-5.

Githens and Zimmerman, rather than go over the distance again, tossed for first place and Githens won.

Then Banker and Brinker, of the Buffalo Athletic club, started in a half mile tandem race with an intention of breaking the record. They started from the quarter pole with the wind to their backs and finished at the three-quarter pole; breaking the half mile tandem record 5 1-5 seconds.

Western Association All Right.

KANSAS CITY, July 18.—The magnets of the Western Base Ball association, who were called together by President Krautkoff, held only a informal meeting yesterday. Baron Hach, of Minneapolis, and Muncaine, of Sioux City, missed their trains and will not arrive until to-day. Garneau, of Omaha, will also arrive today. President Krautkoff is in constant telegraphic communication with Mr. Garneau, and the prospects that Omaha will stay in and the circuit remain intact seem to be good. The only apparent obstacle to the Western association scheme is going on as it is, is the attitude of Sioux City, and unless they can give some substantial guarantee that they will complete the season they will be dropped and Grand Rapids take their place in case Omaha fails to reorganize.

There are present at the conference President S. W. Speas, of the Kansas City club; D. C. Pickard, of Denver; H. E. Gilleite, of Milwaukee; Rowe and Rowley, of Lincoln, and W. Watkins, of Duluth. Every one of the clubs represented has shown evidence of its financial stability and no fears are entertained of Minneapolis' standing, while the Omaha reorganization seems to be assured and the outlook generally appears favorable for a continuation of the association for this season at least without a break.

About 9 o'clock last evening the five base ball directors, who are here to attend the meeting, quietly left their hotel and took the train for Omaha. It is understood that the meeting has been transferred to Omaha and that a plan of reorganization has been mapped out by the directors.

A New Association.

WARREN, O., July 18.—The Oak Grove Driving club, composed of representative horsemen of Warren, has just been organized with M. S. Clapp as president, C. W. Dennison, secretary, and R. A. Cobb, treasurer. The club's summer meeting will take place August 5 and 6, with the following program:

FIRST DAY, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5.

3:30 class, trotting, purse $100.
2:40 class, trotting, purse $300.
2:30 class, trotting, purse $300.

SECOND DAY, THURSDAY, AUGUST 6.

3:00 class, pacing, purse $100.
3:00 class, trotting, purse $150.
Free-for-all, pacing, purse $200.
Pony race, running one-half mile, for ponies 14 hands and under, purse $50.

Entries close at 10 p. m., Friday, July 31.

Ft. Wayne Races.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., July 18.—This was the last day of the summer meeting of the Fort Wayne Driving club. There was only a slight attendance in spite of the favorable weather and good attractions. The first race, 2:24 pace, for a purse of $400, was won by Mary Centre in three straight heats, Blue Bull second, Billy Gault third. Time, 2:23¾, 2:23¾, 2:24¼. Strathso, a great favorite who was heavily backed by the crowd, was distanced, and there was talk of a fixed race. The 2:30 trot for $400 was won by Poll W., Stanley second, C. E. A. third. Time, 2:23¾, 2:23¼, 2:23¼, 2:23¼.

Anything to Defeat the Starrs.

SPORTING EDITOR:—This city can boast of its amateur base ball talent, also of some of its base ball cranks, who take a curious delight in discouraging the efforts of the amateurs by ridicule and by a persistent denial of the good qualities of a player either as an individual or as a team worker. It has been demonstrated that the Starr base ball club are team workers not record players, but all pull together for success.

This is as it should be, and until such time as there is another club organized who will play ball without borrowing players to enable them to win, it is no more than fair and just that the Starrs should be encouraged and given their just dues. For at present they without doubt are the champions of the city.

Killed at His Home.

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., July 18.—News reached here yesterday of the assassination of Dr. C. C. Buckner, near Dermott, Chicott county, Wednesday night. He was at home alone, sitting in the front gallery when some one fired from the darkness. One charge of lead pierced his breast and other his head, killing him instantly. His body was found half an hour later by his colored cook, who was visiting a neighbor. So far no clew to the assassin has been found.

Over-Production.

LONDON, July 18.—In the house of commons, last evening, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, president of the board of trade, in replying to a question as to why the recent great shut-down in the tin plate industry of Wales was necessary, said that he attributed the stoppage of the manufacture of tin plate to over-production. In support of this view Sir Michael cited from the statistics of the industry.

Indicted for Murder.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 18.—The grand jury to-day presented an indictment for murder in the first degree against Darwin J. Meserole, the son of Gen. Meserole, for having shot and killed Theodore Larbig in the flat of Mrs. Dorie Comstock on the 23d of June last. Meserole pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for trial. Mrs. Comstock was not indicted, but is held as a witness.

An Old Nurse for Children.

Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty five cents a bottle.

HURON COUNTY AFFAIRS.

The Fifth Regiment Ready for Camp.

Democrats are Enthusiastic for Campbell—Miscellaneous and Personal Mention.

NORWALK, July 18.—(Special)—The Huron county delegation, which attended the democratic state convention, returned home enthusiastic for Governor Campbell and the entire state ticket.

The senatorial contest is still more or less discussed by politicians and the outlook seems to be that the contest will be between H. L. Stewart, of this city, and Senator Soncrant.

Lieut.-Col. Kennan, of this city, has been actively engaged all week in preparing for the forthcoming encampment of the Fifth regiment at Sager's Grove, Huron, next week.

Col. Gibbons, of Cleveland, is still confined to his bed, and Col. Kennan is practically in command of the regiment.

The Fifth comprises companies from Cleveland, Genoa, Berea, Youngstown and Norwalk, and has always had the reputation of being one of the finest regiments of the state.

Special arrangements have been made to have the encampment next week perfect in every sense.

Quartermaster Kramer and a detail from the Cleveland companies will reach Huron to-day, and the tents and other camp utensils will be forwarded on Monday.

A field piece has been secured for morning and evening guns, and the famous Grand Army band of Canton, numbering 27 pieces, will furnish the music.

This is the camp used by the state artillery last year and is one of the finest camping grounds in the state.

The camp begins on the 22d and continues six days.

Frankie Beeman, the 11 year old son of G. T. Beeman of this city, who left his home last Saturday and was not heard of till Thursday was found in Cleveland that day and brought home by his father.

He had a pretty rough experience, and says he has had all he wants of tramping for a while.

A large number of young folks gave a picnic at the home of the Misses Lawrence, Friday evening, taking supper on the lawn and having a very enjoyable time.

Miss Mayme Cole, of Cleveland, who has been visiting Miss Carrie Fox, returned home on Thursday.

Miss Bessie Adams, of Fremont, who has been visiting Mrs. H. L. Stewart this week, left to-day for Elyria.

Mrs. C. N. Smith and son Don and Mrs. C. B. Wilcox and daughter Helen, of Sandusky, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Fuller on State street.

PUNISHING HIS ENEMIES.

Raum is at His Old Tricks Again.

He Has Scored a Complete Victory Over Noble and Now Gives Him the Laugh.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Raum having passed what his friends are pleased to call the danger point, which was the end of the last fiscal year, that is, June 30, he is now splurging in the pension bureau to suit himself, rewarding his friends and punishing his enemies.

Raum feels that he has won a complete victory over Secretary Noble, and he is now, as he has been all the time in the past, but more openly than ever, carrying out the behests of the pension sharks.

He is completely under the thumb of "Blocks-of-Five" Dudley, and although Lemon is absent from the city himself, the manager of his business has a daily conference with the commissioner.

Mr. Sayres, of Texas, managed to have a proviso injected into the last pension appropriation bill requiring the commissioner of pensions in his report, due next December, to give a statement showing the annual amount that has been expended for pensions on account of the late civil war, the number of pensions that have been fraudulently obtained, etc.

There is some reason to believe that Raum is inclined to dodge the provision and not furnish the information required by the act.

Of course the number of fraudulent pensions would be much less than the actual, because only those actually convicted of fraud would be enumerated in the report, while it is notorious that nearly 90 per cent. of the frauds are never detected.

However, the publication of a list of the convicted frauds would be sufficient to startle people, and, perhaps, would have a bad effect upon the pension sharking business here.

In consequence Raum is trying to evade making that kind of a report. Mr. Sayres and Mr. Dockery performed splendid service for the people in trying to throw light on the pension office methods during the last session of congress, but their efforts were not successful.

It might as well be understood now as later on that Raum will not reveal any of the pension knavery if he can avoid it, and that nothing short of a thorough investigation by the next house of representatives can bring out the true inwardness of the workings of the bureau.

EVENING.

Silence falling, crickets calling
Shrilly out from marsh and meadow
Far away, where dies the day.
Falls a mournful veil of shadow.

Fragrance creeping where lie sleeping
Tiny wild-flowers softly bending
Bells of blue and golden hue
And white and crimson inter-blending.

Softly, slowly, falls a holy
Silence, as of prayer unspoken.
Sails are furled and the broad world
Rolls swinging into night unbroken.

RIPPLES AND BILLOWS.

Hear the merry laugh of childhood
As the boatman dips the oar,
Launching out upon life's ocean,
Bound to reach the other shore.

Drifting onward with the current—
See the ripples, sparkling, bright,
Luring little hands to catch them
As they're wafted out of sight.

Precious freight you're bearing onward:
Angel boatman, row with care;
Clouds so often hide the sunlight,
There is danger everywhere.

Throw a loving arm about them,
Lest, perchance, they go astray;
Dazzled by the wily tempter
'Til they cannot find the way.

For they know not of the billows,
Dark and stormy, they must meet,
As the years creep slowly onward
Ere the voyage is complete.

O, Our Father, guide them safely;
Let not one frail bark be lost.
Those just starting on the journey,
Those who now are tempest tossed.

Some have reached their home in heaven;
Some stand at the gate ajar
Only waiting for admittance;
Others still must journey far.

LETTERS.

Where is Barbara Moss? Has she been struck dumb with amazement at the wonders of the old world, or has she wasted her sweetness on the desert air and obeyed the call to "give!" "give!" until she must have time to recuperate before she can satisfy our claim? We are anxious to go through Europe by the aid of her graphic pen.

We have heard of Russia through Kennan, of Palestine through T. DeWitt Talmage, of Ireland through Parnell and O'Shaw, of England through the newspapers and Bacon, at H. R. H.

Now we want to read of the banks and braes of old Scotia, of beautiful Florence and ancient Rome, of the kaiser's own country, etc.

"Our own correspondent," Mrs. W. S. W., is now traveling in Norway. Although she has a superabundance of light her facile pen is silent.

I received a letter from a dear sister who is spending the summer at Santa Cruz She says: "How I wish you could be with me and see the magnificent view we have from our front porch. A part of the resident portion of the city is built upon a high bluff, and we are on the edge of it. The view of the pretty little city nestled among the trees at our feet, and the grand old ocean in the distance is something to dream of. * * * When you three are together think of the one in the west who is longing to change the melody and rearrange you into a quartette. Fate decrees otherwise. Listen, and you may hear her inner solo that I am sure will be wafted to you from the tree tops as you sit under the evergreens, as we sat a year ago in your front yard."

I have in my desk a pigeon hole of yellow square letters with a wafer seal, no envelopes, some of them, dated as far back as 1829, from my father. They were written after he had arrived at his destination, away out west in the woods, at Chester, Ohio, to his father in Massachusetts, commencing, "Honored Father."

These I read with awe and reverance. Later on I recognize my father's own inimitable style, and this thought comes to me as I read: How trifling a matter we make of writing a letter, and yet that letter may live on and on after our bodies are turned to dust, and our friends may say "Though she is dead she yet speaketh."

Adrian, Mich. EMILIE.

MUCH FROM LITTLE.

One can receive much benefit from even a little, if only willing to accept that little. I've just been reading the "Heart to Heart Talks" in a certain journal, and learned how much a weary, much-burdened housewife, whose husband's pocket-book will not admit of the expenses of a vacation, can have one at home, if her heart is tuned to sing the right song—and the way is, by taking a little at a time and trying to be happy over that little.

So I'm going to begin my vacation by taking time this morning to write the long thought about letter to our Household—letters, one might say, for at least a half dozen have been planned but never written. So it is lucky for our circle that I did not begin my vacation months ago, for they would have been weary of my presence by this time.

Quilts. Ah, now I thought I was old fashioned because I believed in them, that is, enough to make our homes comfortable. I am glad to find other people believe in them, too. Nowadays the little girls are not taught to sew as in the olden times. Much more is the pity. What better way to teach sewing than with the old fashioned nine patch!

First teach them to overcast the seam neatly; then afterwards to run and back stitch, any and every way so they learn to use the needle. Of course they do not like it. They would rather play; and many mothers hate to be "bothered," and let their children go untaught, and then when their daughters have reached young ladyhood, and they need their assistance, they are not capable of rendering it.

Not only is this true of the needle, but likewise in too many other directions. My daughter was never allowed to touch the sewing machine until she was 15, although she was many times grieved at the denial, but to-day, her eighteenth birthday, she knows how to sew, and finish work with a degree of skill to her credit; and the patch-work quilt, followed by the long-seamed riversheets, were the stepping stones.

CRAZY-CLOTH SCARFS.

There is a material sold in the dry goods stores called crazy-cloth, or cotton crepe. It comes in white, yellow, pale blue and pink. Any of these shades can be used for scarfs to throw over the back of a hair, around a picture frame or easel, or repery for a mantal. Now I will tell you ow to make your scarf more decorative.

Cut the length you wish the scarf to be a yard and a half or two yards—and sm it on all four sides with a hem an ich wide. Above the hem draw out four r five threads all around. If you can raw well enough, draw in outline a branch of leaves, or get a pattern stamped t some fancy store. Outline over the drawing with colored silk or cotton in a color that will look well with the color of the cloth. The pattern need be only on one end, but may be on both. It may be as elaborate as you may care to make it, or a very simple design.—Harper's Young People

TWO ARCHERY COSTUMES.

At a tea-table, recently, an animated discussion was had as to whether the fashions of to-day would ever appear as hideous as old fashions do now. It was generally held that the simplicity of to-day's fashions would keep them at least from looking grotesque in the future. For instance, compare these archery costumes, and see how much more graceful of the two is the present fashion.

The first sketch is a facsimile of a water color in the possession of Redfern, with the queen's signature at foot, showing a costume made by the firm for the queen 54 years ago.

This was in 1837, when she was about 19, and archery was her favorite pastime. The gown proper was of white satin with flounces of India muslin. It was made low-necked, but with close sleeves to the wrist. Over this was worn a three-quarter coat of Lincoln green velvet with short puff sleeves slashed and caught with fancy buttons over the white satin beneath. The sash supporting the quiver was embroidered with silver, and the head was covered with a velvet Scotch cap with feathers and a jeweled buckle. The women who read this description will note with amusement and contempt the ugly, flat, heelless slippers and white stockings.

This shows the dress of the Royal Foxopholite Society in 1891, as worn by a well known society woman, who finds in this her favorite amusement, and who gets her gowns from Redfern. As compared to her neat and trim costume, that of England's young Queen shows like a fantastic burlesque affair to be worn at a masquerade.

SCRAP BASKET.

The peerage in her own right which Queen Victoria has conferred upon Lady Macdonald is the fifth which she has granted to women. The first was bestowed in 1801, when the late Duchess of Sutherland was created a peeress in her own right as Countess of Coomantie. The second came in 1868, by the elevation of Mrs. Disraeli to the peerage as Viscountess Beaconsfield. Baroness Burdett Coutts was the third, and Baroness Balsover the fourth, this last-named peerage being granted in 1880 to Mrs. Augusta Cavendish-Bentinck, widow of Lieut. Gen. Arthur Cavendish Bentinck, and stepmother to the Duke of Portland. The new Canadian peeress closes the list.

The heart, the swallow, the fly and the daisy are the favorite devices in jewelry this season, and are reproduced in every possible form for pins, pendants, cuff buttons and in decorations.

Who is't that reads the paper through,
Prose, poetry, and advertisements too,
To find out what there is that's new?
The Women.

Who is't that sends for "catalogues"
Of seeds, and books and "wearing togs,"
All kinds of things (cept fighting dogs?)
The Women.

Who is't that spends their cash as free
"For everything that nice" they see,
To make life bright for you and me?
The Women.

Women will be interested in a new sewing machine which has been invented by a man of the remarkable name of Jones, at Cardiff. No shuttle or bobbin is used, the thread being supplied directly from two ordinary spools. The sewing is done by means of a rotary looper. It is the simplest sewing machine ever invented, and is expected to work a decided revolution in the trade.

A novel use for an old-fashioned low silver cruet stand is to take the bottles out and fill the stand with sand, in which stick fresh or pressed ferns, so they will stand upright. This makes a very pretty dinner-table decoration; and if after each meal the fern-stand be placed in a closet where it will be free from dust, the ferns will last some time. But with the best of care the ferns will need replenishing several times during the winter, therefore it is wise to press a sufficient number of ferns during this month.—Demorest's.

Not in the stately oak the fragrance dwelleth
Which charms the general wood,
But in the violet low whose sweetness telleth
Its unseen neighborhood.

A case was lately tried at Douglas, Wyoming, before a jury composed wholly of women. All the parties concerned in the trial were women also, Mrs. Ingersol, who keeps the hotel at Douglas, being sued by two of her servant girls for their wages. The jury gave judgment for the girls.

He will talk of gore and killing
In a most unpleasant way:
Of the buckets full of spilling
That was done to win the day.
If man can scare you, no lad,
Till your blood will halt and thicken;
But you ought to see him weaken
When he tries to kill a chicken.

In caring for the teeth the simplest remedy is decidedly the best. A little prepared chalk and a brush that is not too stiff will, if brought into use morning and night, whiten the worst teeth and at the same time harden the gums.

New papers for halls and corridors are copied from old Gobelin tapestries. Japanese papers are designed for special rooms, and some artists delight in a Japanese room with the idea carried out in vases, decorations and furniture. Floral patterns and trailing vines are much in demand for boudoirs and bed chambers.

A WOMAN'S POWER.

The talent of dissimulation is in woman a fair equivalent for the gift of strength. Beauty for which sway in the world after its kind; intrigue has to struggle along in the wake of this apparently superior power. Often, indeed, the latter trips the former and usurps its position in the race. There's no need to tell how Delilah sheared Samson of his locks or how the small mouse was able to do more than the lordly lion could.

We see it, too, in the commonest phases of every-day life. In the poverty-stricken houses of the East End, where tragedy is always brewing, because misery there so greatly abounds, who bears calamity the better, the man or the woman? Why, surely, as a rule, the woman. And yet she does not feel it less than her husband. Her capacity for dissimulation is here a distinct blessing. It enables her often to comfort the man when he is at that last stage in the drama of ruin—hesitant only between Waterloo Bridge and the razor, which a malcontent temper has put within the reach of his hand. Her gift as a poser makes her a ministering angel to man, even though she may at the heart be suffering torture beyond the power of words to describe.—All the Year Round.

MINISTERS OF GOOD.

They who thread life's paths bearing on their faces an expression of content and cheerfulness, are radiant ministers of good to mankind. They scatter sunshine on all they meet; depression and gloom fade away in their presence, as they dissolve the discontent of those with whom they come in contact, and dissipate, for the time being at least, the dark clouds of sorrow and regret hanging over the unfortunate, shadowing their lifeway.

Toledo Asylum. E. S. BLAIR.

OUR JOHNNIE.

The BEE Household will remember the pleasing letters written by Johnnie Watrus, of Canandaigua, Mich., and will be pained to learn that on July 4 he had his right arm blown to pieces by a cannon. The shattered member had to be amputated at the shoulder. His courage through the painful operation was remarkable. Johnny is a noble boy, and the sympathies of the Household are his even though we are not all personally acquainted with him.

KITCHEN CONFERENCE.

We give this week three recipes contributed by a member of the Household. Our friends will find, if directions are carefully followed, that they have a delicious chowder, the nicest pickles they ever tasted, and a drink of nectar to finish off with.

Pineapple Sherbet—Cut one can of pineapple up fine and boil until tender, add strained juice of four lemons and one half cup of sugar; mix with pineapple and let it boil. Cut candied cherries in small pieces, cut up green gages and any other candied fruit desired, using one-half pound of fruit to one can pineapple. Add cold water enough to make three quarts of the mixture. Beat whites of four eggs very stiff and add just as the sherbet is put into the freezer. Freeze at once. This amount will nearly fill a gallon freezer and is sufficient for 20 persons where other refreshments are served.

Watermelon Pickles—Select a melon with thick rind and pare off the green skin, leaving on a little of the pink. Cut in pieces two or three inches long and one inch wide, place in a porcelain lined kettle, one gallon of rinds to two heaping teaspoonfuls of common salt, and cover with water. Boil until tender enough to pierce with a silver fork, pour into a colander to drain and dry in a crash towel. Make a syrup of one quart vinegar to three pints of sugar; add cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg, boil and pour over the rinds. Drain off and boil syrup every morning for three mornings in succession.

Salt Fish Chowder.—Take one and a half pounds of salt fish and soak in cold water for six hours, and if not fresh enough pour boiling water over the fish and drain off, repeating this until the fish is quite fresh. Cut one half pound of clear fat salt pork up into small square pieces after removing the skin, fry in the bottom of a kettle, being careful not to let the pork burn. When pork is brown put a layer of the fish, broken up into flakes, on top of salt pork, add layer of potatoes sliced thin, add pepper but no salt, then layer of fish and then potatoes, until three pints of potatoes and all the fish have been used. Add water to cover and let it boil until the potatoes are done, then add one pint of milk and one pint of cracker crumbs and let it come to a boil. Be careful in stirring not to break it any more than can be helped. NELLIE W—.

J. M. BROWN, P. M.

"Peter Piper Picked a Peck of Pickled Peppers," was a line of alliterative nonsense that the children used to say. Nowadays they can practice on the Perfect, Painless Properties of Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. It will impress a fact which will be useful to know. These Pellets cure sick headache, bilious attacks indigestion, constipation and all stomach, liver and bowel troubles. They are tiny, sugar-coated pills, easy to take, and, as a laxative, one is sufficient for a dose. No more groans and gripes from the old drastic remedies! Pierce's Purgative Pellets are as painless as they are perfect in their effects.

HAD A ROMANTIC CAREER.

A Girl for Whom a Fortune is Waiting.

The Man She Loved Leaped Into the Sea, But She Lost no Time in Finding Several Others.

St. Louis, Mo., July 18.—August Huth of 901 South Ninth street to-day furnished information to the police which he thinks will result in the restoration of a young lady to her family, from which it appears she has long been separated.

A short time ago a London detective, in company with a young man named Estabrok from Leeds, Eng., visited New York, Boston and other eastern cities, trying to locate the whereabouts of Miss Maud Estabrook, who disappeared from her home in Leeds nearly a year ago.

The young lady, it appears, is the daughter of Thomas F. Estabrook, deceased. He was a wealthy Leeds merchant, and at his death left a big estate, of which the missing daughter came in for a liberal share.

In the latter part of last year, as the story goes, she left home and went to Vienna, where an intimacy soon ripened between her and Arthur Van Wert, an attache of the English legation in the Austrian capital.

They went to France, it seems, and sailed from Bordeaux for the United States.

On the way across the Atlantic Van Wert committed suicide by jumping overboard.

The young lady supported herself for a while giving music lessons, and later on, it seems, got acquainted with a traveling salesman from Portland, Me. They finally separated in Boston, where she was left penniless.

She then came to St. Louis, and, according to Huth's statement, found employment in a Broadway dry goods establishment under the name of Jane Leact.

She worked there up to a few weeks, when she left for Chicago.

Huth says that he got acquainted with her at the dry goods store, and that she told him of her experience shortly before she concluded to go to Chicago.

The Boston police have been notified, and it is expected that the young lady will soon meet her brother and return to England.

Should be provided with Ayer's Pills. No other aperient is in such general demand or so highly recommended by the profession. Mild but thorough in operation, these pills are the best of all remedies for constipation, biliousness, heartburn, indigestion, flatulency, loss of appetite, liver complaint, and sick headache. They break up colds, fevers, and malaria, relieve rheumatism and neuralgia, and are indispensable to travelers, either by land or sea. Sugar-coated and compounded of the purest vegetable cathartics, they may be taken with impunity by old and young. Physicians recommend these pills in preference to any other. H. W. Hersh, Judsonia, Ark., says: "In 1853, by the advice of a friend, I began the use of Ayer's Pills as a remedy for biliousness, constipation, high fevers, and colds. They served me better than anything I had previously tried, and I have used them in attacks of that sort ever since."

MARKETS.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and from reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Denton B. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., July 18.

London Wheat market at opening slow; Corn quiet. Liverpool Wheat quiet decline of yesterday ½ pence per 100 pounds. Corn firm.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 678,547 bu compared with 297,178 bu on the same day last year.

Quantity of wheat on passage to Antwerp July 2 reported at 2,853,000 bu, against 640,000 bu one year previous.

Quantity of wheat on passage to France July 2, reported at 7,640,000 bu against 1,040,000 bu one year previous.

Quantity of barley on passage to the United Kingdom on July 2 reported at 1,070,000 bu, against 750,000 bu one year previous.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 381,869 bu in excess of corresponding Saturday in 1890.

The receipt of grain for the week at eight principal western points, as per our table herein, are: Wheat, 3,730,000 bu; corn, 2,212,000 bu; oats, 1,282,000 bu, compared with the following in the corresponding week in 1890, viz: Wheat, 1,764,000 bus. Corn 2,785,000 bus. Oats 1,584,000 bus. It will be seen that wheat receipts exceed 1890 by nearly 2,000,000 bus, corn 573,000 bus. and oats 352,000 bus. less.

The receipts of wheat in the week at four Atlantic ports are: Wheat, 1,003,000 bus. Corn, 670,000 bus. The shipments were: Wheat, 640,000 bus.; corn, 539,000 bus.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were quite limited in wheat and flour and only moderate in corn.

English markets as reported herein may be called steady for wheat at yesterday's decline and corn firm.

The American Crop.

The evidences in respect to bountiful yields of wheat, wherever results are ascertained, are so plenty and unmistakable as to render it necessary to revise all partly formed opinions of the crop. We should not be surprised if 10 per cent. was too small an addition to make to previous estimates of the winter wheat yield. What is more, with exception of Missouri, we know of no state where the quality is not as gratifying a feature as the quantity. We propose to show on Monday what we can do with our surplus.

The receipts of wheat continue liberal. The rain of last night and to-day will check them, and it may be very well if they are. It will all come to market, but if we get too much of it now it hurts the market. Toledo has received so far in July 800,000 bu, and we expect to make it 3,000,000 bu at the end of the month, and that is as much as we ever received in July.

The rain storms over the west served to strengthen the wheat markets east and west. There has been the usual irregularity, but the opening and closing were at better prices. There is a little more steadiness in foreign markets, and that may have imparted strength. New York has reported considerable sales for export daily for a week, but the actual clearances do not reflect it, and the exports to-day are quite light.

Corn opened firm, but the closing prices indicate a loss. It looks very much as though the large dealers west were depressing prices in order to make the large profit by shipping to New York. The markets close lower east and west.

In New York July wheat closed at 94¾c, a gain of ¾c; September at 93¾c, a gain of ¾c. July corn at 67¾c, a loss of ¾c; September at 61¾c, a loss of ¼c. In Chicago July wheat closed at 86c, a gain of ⅜c; September at 83¾c, a gain of ⅛c. September corn at 52¼c, a loss of ⅛c.

In Toledo business in wheat futures has been fairly active, especially for August, which has been the favorite deal for some days. Prices obtained to-day average better than yesterday, but the closing is about the same. No new features in the deal except what are noted herein. On the call July sold at 86¼@86¾c; August at 86¼c; September at 80¾c, and December at 80¾c. After the call July sold at 86¾@86¾c and closed at 86¼c steady; August sold at 86¼@86¾@86¾c and closed at 86c, a loss of ¼c; December sold at 90@90¼c and closed at 89¾c steady.

Cash wheat was active. Sales aggregate 100,000 bu. Prices have averaged better. The market for No 2 soft opened with a sale at 87c, but the market weakened and closed where it did yesterday, at 86¼c. No 3 soft at 84 to 84½c, closing at 84c. Wheat and rye mixed at 80c. Red and white No. 2 at 85½c.

Corn—Very little doing; No. 2 is worth 64c. No. 3 sold at 63c.

Clover seed—Lower; December at $4.25.

The stock market was extremely dull again this morning. Up to noon the sales aggregated only 69,370 shares. The tone of speculation was weak during the forenoon, and prices declined under the lead of C., C., C. & St. L. and Burlington during the first hour. The weakness was mainly attributable to the failure of the bank of La Plata in London, and in consequence of which losses sustained by the bank in Argentine ventures. There was considerable foreign selling in the early trading. At 11 o'clock values were off ½ to 1¾ per cent., but after that hour there was a much steadier feeling and on the appearance of the bank statement showing an increase of $3,947,650 in the reserves a slight rally ensued. The closing prices were, however, lower than those of yesterday.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Money slow, with prices easy; city mill extra, $5 0@5 10 for West Indies; Minnesota extra, $5 80@5 20; fine, $4 25@4 90; superfine, $3 65@4 25. An Interesting Batch of Social Gossip Picked by the Bee Correspondents at Many Points.

Norwalk.

The most brilliant social event of the season was the elegant dancing party given this week by Mrs. John Gardiner, Mrs. John Gardiner, jr., Mrs. C. W. Flinn and Mrs. C. H. Stewart in the new and commodious stable recently erected by Mr. John Gardiner, jr., on his premises, 154 West Main street. The grounds and stable were brilliantly lighted with electricity which, together with the beautiful gowns of the ladies and the superb music of Sandusky's Great Western orchestra, made the scene one of fairyland. Among the guests from abroad were Mrs. Dr. Woodward, Mrs. B. W. Asoy, Mr. Will Harkness, of Bellevue; Mrs. Jay O. Moss, Sandusky; Miss Carpenter, Chicago; Mrs. Denton, New York; Mrs. John Coghlan, Toledo; Mrs. Edmund Dickey, Miss Andrews, Fremont; Messrs. Stowe and Brown, of Cleveland.

The Bee.

The BEE will give the people all of the news and advertise their wants. Having a circulation much greater than any other Toledo daily paper it is much the best advertising medium. It secures quicker better returns. Consult your interests by advertising in the BEE when you want anything or have anything to sell.

Parties advertising in these columns and having the answers addressed in care of THE BEE, will please ask for check to enable them to get their letters, as none will be delivered except on presentation of check. All answers to advertisements should be inclosed in envelopes.

Advertisements of Wants, For Rent, For Sale, Lost, Found, etc., not exceeding four lines (28 words), will be inserted in these columns for 50 cents a week, two weeks $1; one month $2. For one insertion 20 cents, two times 30 cents, three times 40 cents, and four times 40 cents will be charged. Over four lines at proportionate rates, payable in advance. Parties desiring situations will be given three insertions free.

No credit is allowed for advertisements ordered in for a certain number of times and stopped before expiration.

SPECIAL SALE

Of Pianos and Organs.

On August first we will remove to our magnificent quarters in Pythian castle. We have decided to make a special sale of pianos and organs from now until that date. This is the first times in twenty years that we have made a special sale, and our aim shall be to please customers by selling them first class, reliable instruments at remarkably low prices. We have a number of instruments that have had a little use that will be disposed of without regard to actual worth. We will keep open evenings for the remainder of the month to accommodate those who cannot call during the day.

Six Score Years Old.

A Ruthenian, 124 years old, is living in the town of Belgorod, in the government of Koorsk; his name is Bogdan Nitchimorenko. He is still hale and hearty, only his hearing is somewhat impaired. He ascribes his old age to his manner of living. At the age of 25 he became ill, and as there were no physicians in the neighborhood, a Tartar practitioner or "wise man" (snakhar) was engaged to cure him. For three weeks he was under the znakhar's treatment until his health was restored. Parting from him the znakhar told him that, if he wished to live long, he must never eat any old or stale food. For fear lest he fall sick again, Nitchimorenko observed this rule scrupulously. He ate nothing but spring fowl, veal, or lamb, and never touched a piece of meat of an old animal. Even garden fruit he ate only when it was quite young and fresh; he never touched canned or pickled food of any kind. He became so habituated to this diet that he conceived an aversion for old fruit and to ripe fruit. He was married three times and had eight daughters, all of whom died between the ages of 50 and 60 years. At the age of 84 Nitchimorenko took to him a fourth wife, a girl of 20 years. She bore him two daughters, one of whom is at present 40 years and the other 38 years old. He says that he did not feel old until he attained the age of 104, and then only because he had suffered some reverses and was compelled to change his manner of living. His wife and two daughters take good care of him, and in the neighborhood he is treated with great veneration. —New York Sun.

ARE STARVING TO DEATH.

A Sensational Story from Pine City.

The Husband Devoured by Wolves When Drunk Left His Family in a Pitiable Condition.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 18.—About one hundred miles southwest of this city on the outskirts of the thick forests of Snake river lies the hamlet of Pine City.

Though dignified by the name of city it numbers but a few hundred souls.

It is one of those indigenous farming communities so common to Minnesota and the Dakotas, where the people seldom set foot outside of the circle of the town from one year to another.

Farther to the south about fifty miles flows the tortuous Snake river. This takes its name, as might be inferred, not because its banks abound in reptiles, but on account of its excessively winding course, flowing one moment in a straight lineand in another moment cutting a corner at the sharp angle of sixty or ninety degrees.

There are few settlers along its thickly wooded banks, and no settlement nearer than Pine City.

In fact so sparsely inhabited is this region that the names of the few who have staked claims therein are scarcely known.

How people can be happy in this wild region, much less subsist, is a mystery. It is really a wonder that some do not become insane.

What was the horror of the people of Pine City on Wednesday when a fishing party of that village returned from the woods bringing with them a wild woman and her 16-year old daughter.

The daughter tells a story of terrible suffering and privation. She says that the husband and father of the family was eaten by wolves while in an intoxicated condition last March.

Since that time they have had no food in the humble cabin. The three younger children died of starvation, and were cooked and eaten, one by one, by the mother and oldest daughter.

The mother's mind finally way, and she is now a raving maniac.

W. F. Glason, a merchant at Pine City, provided them with clothing and took them to his house and gave them shelter and food.

Yesterday they were taken to the county jail, where they will be provided for pending an investigation, as it is thought that in all probability one or more of the children were murdered by the demented mother.

The affair has thrown the village in a state of intense excitement and it has been proposed to send an expedition to the home of the family to investigate more fully the horrible story. The name of the woman could not be learned from her, as her ravings were unintelligible. From the daughter it was learned that her name is Peterson. Hans Peterson was the name of her father. He was employed in a logging camp.

SUFFOLK TRUST COMPANY, Transfer Agents. Exchange Building, BOSTON. MASS.

THE PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY CONSISTS OF

FIRST. 8,000 City Lots of 2,022 acres of land in the city of Tallapoosa, Haralson county, Georgia, the residue remaining unsold of 2,500 acres, on the center of which the city was originally built. Estimated value on organization of company, Oct. 1, 1890, $1,084,765, but largely increased in amount and present value since that time by additional purchases of city lands and improvements and developments added.

SECOND—2,428 acres of valuable mineral land adjacent to the city of Tallapoosa, all located with a radius of six miles from the center of the city. Present value, $122,900.

THIRD—The issued capital stock of the Georgia, Tennessee & Illinois Railroad company, chartered for the purpose of building a railroad from Tallapoosa, Ga., to Stevenson, Ala., 120 miles, that will net the company nearly $2,000,000 of the capital stock of railroad, paying 7 per cent dividends.

FOURTH—The Tallapoosa Furnace, on the line of the Georgia Pacific railroad, in the city of Tallapoosa, Ga.—the said furnace being of 50-tons capacity, manufacturing the highest grade of cold and hot blast charcoal car-wheel iron. Present value, $350,000.

FIFTH—The Piedmont Glass Works, situated on the line of the Georgia Pacific railroad, in the city of Tallapoosa, Ga., said plant being 12-pot furnace capacity, and manufacturing flint-glass flasks and prescription ware. Present value, $100,000.

SIXTH—The Tallapoosa Reclining Chair factory on the line of the Georgia Pacific railroad in the city of Tallapoosa, Ga., manufacturing hammock, reclining and other chairs. Present value, $25,000.

SEVENTH—Sundry interest bearing bonds, notes, mortgages, loans, stocks, etc., acquired since the organization of company in securing the location on its property of new manufacturing industries and from sales of its lots and cash in bank, received from the sale of treasury stock for improvements not yet invested.

There is already located on the property of the company, in the city of Tallapoosa, from 2,800 to 3,000 inhabitants, three-quarters of whom are northern people, who have settled there within the last three years, about 700 houses, 40 business houses and blocks, public parks, free public schools, churches, hotels, waterworks, electric lights, $75,000 hotel, now building, to be open in October, street railway and 12 new manufacturing industries under contract and building that will employ fully 1,000 additional operatives, requiring 500 new dwelling houses, and increase the present population of the city from 3,500 to 5,000.

THE INCOME OF THE COMPANY.

Is derived principally from six sources:

FIRST. Earnings of its manufacturing establishments, now in operation and to be built (now $76,235.04 yearly).

SECOND. Rentals of its farming lands and sales timber in "stumpage" (estimated $3,000 yearly).

THIRD. Sales of its city lots in Tallapoosa, Ga., for improvement and investment (estimated $250,000 yearly).

FOURTH. Working of its mines and quarries, by themselves or on "royalties" (estimated $10,000 yearly).

FIFTH. Profits on mineral, timber and town site options on line of Ga., Tenn. & Ill. R. R. (estimated $50,000 yearly).

SIXTH. Earnings of stock of Georgia, Tennessee & Illinois R. R. (estimated $186,408 yearly.

4 ADVANTAGES OF THE STOCK AS AN INVESTMENT.

PRINCIPAL absolutely secure under any circumstances, the property being paid for in full.

DIVIDENDS, to include earnings and all receipts from sale of city lots, paid regularly April and October.

PROBABILITY of a large increase in each semi-annual dividend by increased earnings and sales.

CERTAINTY of a rapid increase monthly in the intrinsic value and selling price of the stock itself.

UNTIL AUGUST 1, $3.60 PER SHARE

The Company offer to the public, until August 1, a special registered issue of Full Paid Shares of its Capital Stock, forever unassessable, at

Price of Stock to be Advanced Saturday, August 1, to $4.00 Per Share.

Right Reserved to Withdraw Stock from Sale without Notice after August 1, or Advance Price to Par.

The Directors of the GEORGIA-ALABAMA INVESTMENT AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY have decided to offer to the public until Saturday Aug. 1, a limited amount of the full paid capital stock of the company at $3.60 per share (par value $10 00,) and after that date to either withdraw the stock entire from the sale or advance the price to $4.00 per share.

If taken as rapidly as was the June issue the stock will be withdrawn from sale after Aug. 1, and price advanced to par, as only enough will be offered to complete the extensive developments inaugurated on the Company's property at Tallapoosa.

This stock is full paid, and subject to no future assessments under any circumstances.

One million dollars of the $4,500,000 capital stock was placed in the treasury of the company for the developments of its properties, and the enhancements and protection of the interests of the stockholders.

Under the plan of the organization of the company all receipts of the sale of the Treasury Stock of the Company are expended at once for improving and developing the property of the company, increasing its assets to the extent of the amount received.

The entire properties of the company being paid for in full, all the receipts from the sale of city lots go at once to the dividend fund of the company, in addition to the earnings of its manufacturing establishments in operation and its income from other sources.

The stock of the company will not only earn gratifying dividends for the investor, but will increase rapidly in the market value, with the development of the company's property.

The stock will shortly be listed on the New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston consolidated stock exchanges.

Orders for stocks will be filled as received, in any amount from one share upward, as it is desired to have as many small holders in all sections of the country as possible, who will by their interest in the company, influence emigration to Tallapoosa and advance the interests of the company.

THE COMPANY GUARANTEE PURCHASERS IMMEDIATE CASH FOR STOCK BOUGHT

At an Advance of 5 Cents per Share per Month (or 17 1-2 Per Cent. per Annum),

At any time (after the month following purchase) they desire to sell prior to its being listed on the exchanges in October, or will secure a purchaser for the stock at their own selling price less 2 per cent commission for making the transfer as the stockholder may elect.

Stock purchased now and held until after the payment of the October dividend (probably 20c per share) will net the purchaser an advance equivalent to 40 per cent per annum.

Stock purchased of the company during May or June at $3.60 per share will be cashed by the syndicate if desired immediately after August 1st at $3.55 per share, and stock purchased during July (also stock purchased during May and June) will be cashed after Sept. 1st at $3.60
